After intense clashes at the Delhi border, Union Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar reaches out, invites farmers' organisations for a fresh round of talks on the new farm laws on December 3

With the AAP supporting the agitation, the Delhi govt rejects the Delhi Police's request to convert stadiums inside the city into temporary jails to house the detained farmers

"While a section of farmers want to block the highway to pressure the Centre, others want to protest at the designated Nirankari Ground," said a farmer leader on condition of anonymity

Delhi gate opens to Punjab, Haryana farmers after clashes

BKU holds sit-in protests across several districts of west UP in show of solidarity

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi/Chandigarh/Lucknow

THOUSANDS of farmers from Punjab and Haryana clashed at least thrice with the Delhi Police on Friday as they were prevented from entering the Capital even as Union Agriculture minister Narendra Singh Tomar urged them to end the agitation and come for the third round of talks on December 3.

"The government has always been ready to discuss issues. We have invited farmers' organisations for another round of talks on December 3," Tomar said in a statement.

But his appeal hardly found any takers as the farmers stayed put at Delhi's doorstep, blocking the national highway to Chandigarh. They also ignored the Delhi Police, who after blocking their entry into the Capital, permitted them to go to the Nirankari Ground in north Delhi's Burari area to stage their protest.

The Punjab and Haryana farmers received support from their Uttar Pradesh counterparts, with the Bharatiya Kisan Union holding sit-in protests across several districts of west UP and blocking highways.

Other than the Yamuna Expressway, the BKU protested at Baghpat, Muzaffarnagar, Meerut, Bijnor, Hapur, Shamli, Bulandshahr, Ghaziabad, Noida, Moradabad and Saharanpur. Officials in the Home ministry maintained that the government is in constant touch with the states to maintain law and order.

In many areas along the Delhi border, such as Tikri, Singhu border, protesters refused to move to the Nirankari Ground. At Tikri border, the Delhi Police took hundreds of farmers to the Nirankari Ground, but the protestors returned to the border.

At the Singhu border, the farmers sought permission to protest at Ramlila Maidan. "We are not moving anywhere now. We have enough dal, wheat and gas to prepare our own food. Once our representatives reach, we will move to the Nirankari Ground," said farmers. P9

BSY defers move on OBC tag for Lingayats

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN a surprising, but strategic climbdown, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on Friday deferred a decision on recommending the OBC tag to the Veerashaiva-Lingayats, reportedly after a conversation with Union Home Minister Amit Shah. The issue', which was listed on the agenda for the cabinet meeting, was discussed, but not approved as planned earlier.

"Since this is a very special decision, we will discuss the issue with the central leadership and then go ahead. This is also the view expressed by my cabinet colleagues", the CM said, before heading into the cabinet meeting. Speaking to the media, Yediyurappa confirmed that he had a telephonic conversation with Amit Shah.

Before the meeting, the CM spoke to Shah, who is said to have dissuaded him from taking up the issue in the cabinet for now. The government will take up the issue up after due diligence — discussing it in detail with different community heads, cabinet colleagues, central leadership and legal experts and getting a comprehensive understanding of the matter, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy said.

The CM was originally scheduled to address the media and make an announcement on Friday, urging the Centre to approve the OBC tag to the Veerashaiva-Lingayat community. This was being seen as a master stroke to further consolidate his support base in the community. But as the issue was deferred, the media contingent was informed that the CM will not address them after the cabinet meeting. P4

Recession stays, but recovery has been faster

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

INDIA's economy, on a slowdown path since March 2018 and pummelled by the coronavirus pandemic, has officially entered recession with GDP growth contracting 7.5% year-on-year in the July-September 2020 quarter.

This is, however, a notable improvement from the mind-numbing 23.9% decline in the previous three-month period (April-June 2020). Recession is when economic growth rate is negative for two consecutive quarters or more.

Assuming a 5-6% trendline growth, the effective output loss during the first half of the current fiscal is upward of ₹20 lakh crore.

The data released by the National Statistics Office on Friday has come as a relief as various projections had pegged GDP growth to be much worse. Even RBI forecast was a contraction of 8.6%. This shows the economy is healing faster than thought, economists say. P15

Cash-strapped departments mull ways to raise funds; BBMP to collect land transport levy

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

IT is not just citizens who are yet to become financially stable and make ends meet during the pandemic. The state government too, appears to face the same situation.

Various government departments are coming up with ways to fund ongoing and future projects. One such scheme is the Bengaluru Urban Transport Fund proposed by the departments of urban development and urban land transport. The fund will be used not just to improve last-mile connectivity as proposed, but also to improve overall urban development work across the state.

Work in progress at Nrupatunga Road in Bengaluru (file photo) | EXPRESS

"The proposal has been finalised, but there are still some finer details which need to be ironed out before submitting it to the government for approval. The fund will be collected along with the layout plan and development charges while forming layouts. We need not wait for the financial year to commence to levy it, it can be rolled out immediately after the government approves," sources in the UDD told TNIE.

BBMP has also proposed to collect land transport cess for the improvement of road conditions in the city, which is proposed to be 2%. However the UDD has proposed 1% charge of the layout plan as Bengaluru Urban Transport Fund.

Another senior government official seeking anonymity said that while other districts will pay for one fund, those in Bengaluru will pay for two. The official added that government funding is normally given for big projects like the suburban rail and to city corporations like BBMP, and boards such as the BWSSB and others in the districts. Little funding is given to departments to take up developmental works. So through the BUTF not just transportation, but also other projects will be addressed, such as lake development and solid waste management.

The BBMP is already working on collecting garbage collection charges fee in the form of service charge from citizens from January to manage the waste generated in Bengaluru. The BBMP also already collects beggary cess, library cess, health and solid waste management cess, apart from property taxes.

Carmelaram bridge gets nod, to bring relief to IT workers

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE much-dreaded spot for motorists heading from Whitefield, Gunjur and Panathur towards Sarjapur Road and Silk Board Junction is the Railway Level Crossing near the Carmelaram Railway Station. To help commuters, the Railway Board recently sanctioned a Road Over Bridge here.

Motorists get stuck here anywhere between 15 and 35 minutes when the gates are shut for trains to pass. There is absolute chaos when the boom barrier opens and vehicles race ahead in opposite directions.

The New Indian Express has a copy of the letter dated November 18 which has sanctioned the bridge at LC Gate no. 132 at a cost of Rs 40.3 crore. The Railways will put in Rs 11.26 crore, while the State government Rs 29.09 crore, it says.

A senior BBMP official said that they have completed the survey and identified properties that have to be acquired for the bridge. "Soon, we will issue a notification for the acquisition of these properties. We can compensate property owners in the form of the Transfer of Developmental Rights. If they need cash, then the approval has to be given by the government," he said. The land acquisition would take at least six months, he added.

But the Railways need not wait for acquisition to begin work. "The main carriage way of the bridge comes in the portion of land belonging to the State Government. The work can progress in these areas. By the time they complete some work there, we can hand over other pieces of land," he said.

A top railway official confirmed that the approval has been received for the project. "No deadline has been fixed for the completion of the bridge now. It can be done after land acquisition is completed," he said.

Sanjeev Dyamannavar, urban transportation expert, said, "This will offer relief for both rail and road traffic. With the doubling work on between Baiyappanahalli and Hosur, double the number of trains that were run before Covid can run along the stretch. Trains need not slow down mindful of a level crossing ahead. The IT crowd heading towards Sarjapur and Silk Board Junction from Whitefield take this road as it the shortest route. It will really be a big relief if they do not have a gate here anymore."

Baiyappanahalli 3rd terminal may open in Jan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE third coaching terminal for the City at Baiyappanahalli is likely to be ready in January next year. The work will not be completed even by early next year and could open with one or three platforms, highly-placed sources said.

General Manager of South Western Railway A K Singh inspected the terminal to see the progress of works.

A senior official present at the spot said, "The pandemic delayed the work enormously. It is now going on at a brisk pace with the existing labour force, but it will not be ready by December-end as we had planned. By January-end we hope to open it with either one platform or a maximum of three platforms." Another official said the delay "does not practically affect the daily operations as most trains are not operating now."

The Rs 192.59 crore terminal will have seven platforms, three pit lines and seven stabling lines. It has missed numerous deadlines over the last two years, the latest being December-end.

The terminal can decongest the saturated KSR Bengalur and Yesvantpur railway stations.

Bengaluru gets its own species of frog, youngsters make a rare find on outskirts

ENS @Bengaluru

A group of researchers have discovered a new frog species which has been named after the silicon city to draw attention to the restoration of amphibian habits in Bengaluru.

Researchers from Mount Carmel College in Bengaluru, Zoological Survey of India, National Museum of Natural History in France, Indian Institute of Science, and Yuvaraaja's College in Mysuru discovered the frog and gave it the scientific name Sphaerotheca Bengaluru. Their findings have been published in the journal Zootaxa, and its suggested common name is "Bengaluru burrowing frog".

The researchers discovered the frog during a survey around Rajankunte in North Bengaluru. "We sampled a set of frog specimens fitting the generic description of Sphaerotheca but not matching the descriptions of any of the extant species of the genus," the study.

They then carried out site specific field searches in and around the degraded ecosystems of Bengaluru between September 2018 and October 2019 to collect burrowing frogs and document them.

The new species of burrowing frog discovered near Bengaluru | EXPRESS

Although these frogs belong to the burrowing frog species, there were differences in morphology, and gene sequence, said Deepak P, one of the researchers of the study and assistant professor of zoology at Mount Carmel College.

"Frogs need water to complete their life cycle. Urban water bodies such as lakes are rapidly depleting in Bengaluru and this will pose a threat to them. We found the habitat of this species on the outskirts of the city, where there is agriculture and horticulture land, with temporary water sources dependent on rain," Deepak said.

In a statement, the researchers said that the new species has been named after Bengaluru to draw attention to the lacunae in documentation of amphibians in non-forested areas, and to restore freshwater bodies - which frogs inhabit - in Bengaluru.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)

If you're taking time off, it looks very much as if all leisure pursuits should be competitive. The fact is that there is no satisfaction as great as that gained from coming first or, at least, from doing better than you've ever done before. If you have a strength, then it's your willingness to deal with detail.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)

It's time for some of your typical intuitive foresight. You see, it's important to broaden your horizons, and even if there are some options that you have always shunned, they are almost certainly worth considering now. You might not go for what's on offer, and something completely different could catch your eye!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

Romantic attachments could take an intense turn, which will no doubt be deeply satisfying. However, you may be inclined to judge others a little too harshly. The moment you start comparing one person unfavourably with another, you're in danger of letting your personal feelings interfere with the truth.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

This may not be the best time to lay down the law, for partners, colleagues and rivals have strong opinions of their own. It's much better to ask them what they think, and turn this to your own advantage. You might be able to use their arguments to show them why they should take more notice of you!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)

This should be a busy period, and time set aside for relaxation may be curtailed by additional duties incurred as partners, children or friends present you with fresh demands. Actually, you could be happier to be active than left with time on your hands.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)

There is no need to be more shy and retiring than usual. In fact, you may dust down your neglected or forgotten creative skills and theatrical qualities. Life should be approached in a spirit of spontaneity, youthful vigour and a willingness to take whatever comes.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)

You may now have the determination to implement family changes or home improvements which once seemed beyond your power. Even hopes which you thought would always remain as fantasies may now be put into action. And about time too, some people would say!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)

You might feel as if you're facing an uphill struggle. If you don't seem to be making any headway, it's probably because you have not done enough to persuade other people that they have just failed to appreciate the truth, and that you are right. It's never too late to have another go!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)

It's not a bad moment for shopping trips, although there seems to be a planetary law in operation which says that whatever money you have when you leave home will be spent by the time you return. You don't have to give in to it, though. A simple solution is to keep your wallet tight shut!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)

A sociable Moon is just the tonic you need to lift your morale and enable you to believe in yourself. If you should have moments of self-doubt, don't ignore them, but make use of the opportunity to discover exactly why your confidence has slipped.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)

Relatively secretive stars might force you to adjust your social priorities. The most pleasant gatherings will be discreet and involve just one or two favoured people. It's an enlightening moment to pursue any spiritual or mystical interests.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)

You'll be on top form socially. Your drawback may just be a return to your natural shyness but, at times like this, you seem to be confident enough for it not to matter. Incidentally, Venus' current movement signifies high romantic hopes. But can they be met? Well, only time will tell!

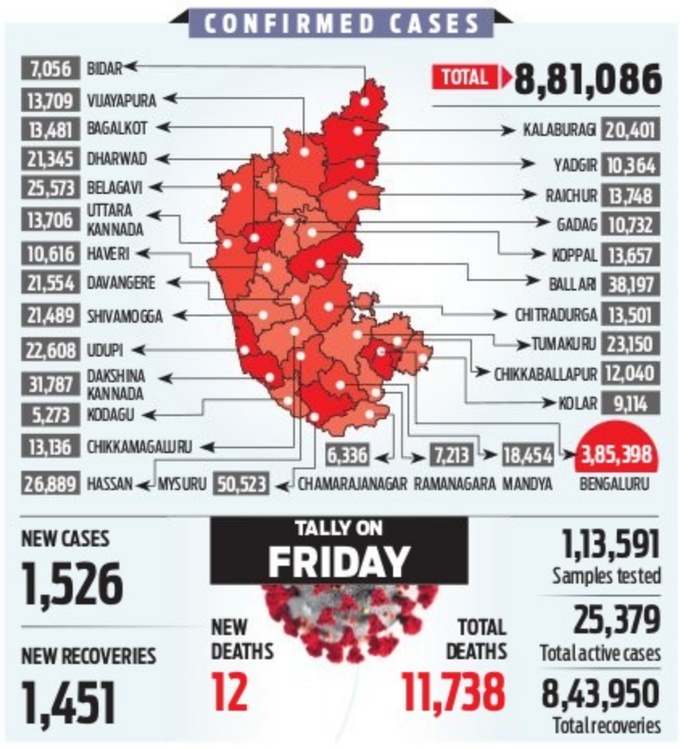
Mortality among centenarians at 5%



ENS @Bengaluru

EIGHT months into the pandemic the mortality rate among the oldest category of patients - centenarians - is low at 5%.

Out of 60 people aged 100 and above afflicted by Covid-19, there were three deaths so far in Karnataka. The figure is low compared to the 90-99 age group, which saw 11.5% of 1,292 patients passing away due to the disease. This is followed by 9.1% of 11,008 patients in the 80-89 age group, 6.2% of 39,818 patients in the 70-79 age group, and 4% of 88,055 patients in the 60-69 age group succumbing to the virus.

While the positivity rate has been declining and the mortality rate steady since November 14, the recovery rate marginally dropped in the last two days. On November 25, the recovery rate was 95.85% and this fell to 95.78% in the next two days.

The active cases growth rate has been on the rise in the last three days, with a percentage increase of 1.12, 1.71 and 0.24, over November 25, 26, and 27 respectively. However, the daily rate of increase in new cases has been below 1% since October 16.

In terms of active cases, the top 5 districts are Bengaluru Urban with 19,083 cases, Mysuru with 593, Dakshina Kannada with 473, Tumakuru with 440 and Bengaluru Rural with 398.

It is taking that state 76 days to double Covid cases, a massive jump compared to October 1 when it was taking just 36 days for to double.

RURAL FOLK HESISTANT TO UNDERGO COVID-19 VACCINE TRIALS, SAY EXPERTS

Factors such as education level, fear of outcome affects attitudes; there is time to educate people, officials say

AJITH M S @Mysuru

WHILE many are closely watching the progress of Covid-19 vaccines, experts have flagged a pattern where a section of people may hesitate to take the vaccine over fear and concerns, which is referred to as vaccine hesitancy.

In the case of Mysuru, where vaccine trials are underway at JSS Hospital, attitudes are starkly different between urban and rural people. While many people from urban areas are flocking to participate, those from villages are not keen and are hesitant to enrol themselves.

Vaccine hesitancy has been a matter of concern in the case of many vaccines in the past. The polio vaccine too faced such a hurdle.

Notably, a recent study by United States Pharmacopeia about Covid-19 vaccination in low and middle income countries revealed that 40% of those surveyed said they want to wait and watch before getting vaccinated.

According to pro-vice-chancellor of JSS Academy of Higher Education and Research Dr B Suresh, a well-known researcher himself, those from villages are hesitant about the tests since they are worried about the outcome and its effects. Some even say "they are in a village, so it is unnecessary", Dr Suresh said.

"It depends on the education level as well. Those from urban areas and ones who travel are more open to it," he said. He pointed out that it is natural to have a section of people being hesitant to receive the vaccine since Covid-19 is a new disease. In any case, he said, the distribution will take a long time. "By the time the vaccine production catches up and mass vaccination drives are undertaken, sufficient awareness can be created and by then it will become like a necessity eventually, like polio," he said.

A technician at a Covid sample collection booth in Bengaluru takes off her PPE suit after her shift on Friday | MEGHANA SASTRY

Divisional joint director of the Health and Family Welfare Department Dr B S Pushpalatha, who is handling eight districts, said that initial vaccine hesitancy is common.

"We had extensively tackled misconceptions and doubts as well as worries among the public during Measles-Rubella immunisation as well as polio. We will do it with Covid-19 as well," she said.

She said that since the plan is to deliver the vaccine to health workers first and the drive for the public comes only after that, it gives them sufficient time to work out strategies. Sources said that keeping in mind the concerns that emerge at the district and state level vaccine task force meetings, directions are being given to take into confidence religious and other influential leaders as well as private practitioners to aid the smooth delivery of the vaccine once it becomes a reality.

However, experts familiar with the matter pointed out that the Covid vaccine is that it is an adult vaccination drive unlike others. "With most of the recipients being adults, the strategy needs to be different," said an expert, adding that the Japanese Encephalitis vaccination in states such as Uttar Pradesh is a good example.

Robot-assisted knee replacement surgery launched

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A private hospital in the city has launched a robotic joint replacement programme to ensure higher precision in bone cutting, less pain and blood loss and near-normal knee motion for both total and partial knee replacement.

The robotic system has an advanced computed programme that relays precise information about the knee with 3D mapping, and ensures better position of the implant. Apollo Hospitals in Bengaluru launched the programme on Wednesday.

Knee replacement surgeries are done when bones become arthritic, due to disease, age or fractures. This robot-assisted surgery is similar to that used in brain surgery, providing perfection for the surgeon and predictability for the patient, said Davison PK, chief executive officer, Apollo Hospitals, Karnataka region.

Owing to fear of Covid, several patients have postponed their surgeries. A surgical bubble has been formed at the hospital's Jayanagar branch, which will serve as a non-Covid centre. Patients requiring surgery will undergo a Covid test, and the health of staff and doctors will be monitored as well, with stringent protocols in place.

"Patient investigation will be done at home, followed by a telecon with doctors. This will be followed by the robot-assisted surgery which will ensure as little damage to the tissue as possible. Without using a robot, this surgery was always a hit or miss, but now we can ensure a near-normal feeling for partial or total knee replacement, with hospital stay cut from 6-7 days to 2-3 days," said Dr Sanjay Pai, senior consultant, orthopaedic surgeon, Apollo Specialty Hospitals.

Dr Pratap C Reddy, chairman, Apollo Hospitals Group, said osteoarthritis is a rising health concern in India, with a prevalence rate of 22% – 39%.

SPOKE TO SHAH, CABINET EXPANSION SOON, SAYS CM

Sources say it may take more than 2-3 days; ministers lobby in Delhi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AS the guessing game on cabinet expansion continues, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on Friday reiterated that the much-awaited exercise would be taken up soon, as he has discussed it with Union Home Minister Amit Shah.

Before the cabinet meeting on Friday, he said, "I have spoken to Amit Shah and it will happen soon."

CMO sources said that Shah had called the CM to dissuade him from going ahead with the decision to recommend to the Centre giving OBC tag to Veerashaiva-Linagayat community, which was listed in the cabinet agenda.

Sources said that though the CM expressed confidence of taking up the ministry expansion in two-three days, there is no buzz on such an exercise in New Delhi.

A senior cabinet member from the state, who is among several ministers from Karnataka camping in the national capital, said, "There is no talk of ministry expansion", and indicated that it may take more time.

The CM recently visited New Delhi to seek approval for the ministry expansion and was waiting for the high command nod.A number of ministers abstaining from the Friday cabinet meeting to rush to Delhi to attend BJP national general secretary CT Ravi's office inauguration or to attend party programmes outside Bengaluru too raised many eyebrows.

Ashwath Narayan bats for Yogeshwar

Udupi: Deputy Chief Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan said C P Yogeshwar deserves to be a minister as he has taken many responsibilities in the formation of the BSY government. He said there is no question of discrimination while expanding the cabinet. He was in Udupi to participate in the inaugural session of the 'Grama Swarajya' convention of the BJP on Friday. He said the party Central leadership may take a decision on Yogeshwar after necessary consultation. ENS

While the CM was about to take the major decision, which many termed as a masterstroke to further consolidate his hold over the Lingayat community, several senior ministers were busy meeting central leaders and ministers in New Delhi.

Water Resource Minister Ramesh Jarkiholi, Revenue Minister R Ashoka, Deputy CM Laxman Savadi, Industries Minister Jagadish Shettar and several others were in Delhi, while Deputy CM Dr CN Ashwath Narayan was in Udupi to attend a party programme.

Savadi and Ashoka met BJP National General Secretary B L Santhosh and BJP General Secretary in-charge of Karnataka Arun Singh, while Bidar MP Bhagwant Khuba, legislators Shivanagowda Naik, Aravind Bellad, and former MLA Sanjay Patil too were present.

Sources said Jarikiholi is lobbying for MLC CP Yogeshwar, who was also in Delhi on Friday. "Jarkiholi is also lobbying for Mahesh Kumathalli if they drop Shrimant Patil from the cabinet. He is expected to return to Bengaluru on Saturday,'' said the source. Jarkiholi who led the rebel camps from Congress, is trying to include all those legislators who helped form the Yediyurappa government.

In Bengaluru, BJP MLCs Vishwanath, MTB Nagaraj and R Shankar, who too were part of the rebel camp that helped the BJP government, expressed displeasure over delayed ministry expansion.

Ministers from Karnataka met Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi, ministers Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, Dharmendra Pradhan, and others. While Savadi and Ashok met Joshi, Pradhan and Rajnath Singh, Jarkiholi met Shekhawat.

The cabinet has seven vacancies. There is pressure on CM to include the newly elected MLAs and MLCs, including Munirathna, Vishwanath, Shankar, Nagaraj and others.

A senior BJP leader pointed out that Bengaluru and Belgavi regions have maximum number of ministers, while many districts have remained unrepresented. "Party high command wants to ensure that all regions and communities are represented," he said.

CRUCIAL DECISIONS

Cabinet gives green signal for Vijayanagar district

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE State Cabinet, which met here on Friday, gave the green signal to the newly-constituted Vijayanagar district, carved out of Ballari district in the Kalyan-Karnataka region. While Hospet is expected to be the capital, six of 11 taluks of Ballari district will come under the new entity.

The new district will have Hospet, Harappanahalli, Hoovinahadagali, Hagaribommanahalli, Kotturu and Kudligi taluks under its administration. The decision will be notified and objections called for, said Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy.

The meeting was held with a reduced quorum as many ministers are in Delhi to take part in party national General Secretary C T Ravi's office inauguration. Among those absent were Ramesh Jarkiholi and R Ashoka.

Eyeing the bypoll at Maski, which is round the corner, the cabinet approved irrigation and canal modernisation projects worth ₹52.54 crore. Local residents pointed out that this will be a game-changer as it is expected to benefit thousands of farmers from the Scheduled Tribe community in this agriculture-dependent constituency.

The BJP has already started working at the grassroots level in the constituency to ensure victory.

₹7,276 crore okayed for urban housing programme

Addressing a long-pending demand for urban housing, the cabinet approved one of the biggest housing programmes at Rs 7,276 crore through the Karnataka Housing Board. Residential sites will be distributed to economically weaker sections in 98 towns across the state under the programme.

The Cabinet is also expected to approve three more names for the high-powered committee which had 11 members to look into the Metro Rail project that already has the chief secretary and other senior bureaucrats.

The three additional members are Bengaluru Police Commissioner, South Western Railway Divisional Railway Manager and KRIDE Director.

The decision was taken to include Lakshmipuram under Yeshwanthpur and Kanshiramnagar and Lakshmipuram Ward No. 12, which are a part of Dasarahalli, into Bengaluru.

The cabinet also discussed filling up of backlog of SC/ST posts in different departments. There was a delay as Govind Karjol was replaced by B Sriramulu as social welfare minister.

The government has taken permission to set up a centre of excellence in collaboration with the Software Technology Park of India at ₹27 crore and the cabinet decided to release its share of ₹17 crore.

Permission was given to take up development works at regional offices of Visvesvaraya Technical University in Belagavi, Davanagere and Chikkaballapur at Rs 43 crore.

The cabinet okayed the building of a check dam at Tindi in Dakshina Kannada at ₹36.34 crore that will benefit thousands of farmers.

The cabinet has increased the number of leaves that can be carried forward to the next year by government employees from 30 to 45 days.

When Madhuswamy was bombarded with questions on the reservation to the majority Lingayat community, he said that the issue was not taken up at the cabinet meeting.

GP polls will nurture future leaders: Kateel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Udupi

STATE BJP president Nalin Kumar Kateel on Friday said that the party will fight the coming Gram Panchayat elections deploying all its resources as the local body polls are crucial to nurture future party leaders. The party's motto is to empower local administrations and that is why GP elections are being taken seriously, he said.

Around 96,000 candidates supported by the party will contest the GP elections in 5,800 gram panchayats across the state. "The present dispensation of PM Narendra Modi at the Centre and B S Yediyurappa in the state has allocated a considerable amount of grant through gram panchayats. This good work of the BJP government needs to be communicated to the people. Based on the work done, our party workers will reach out and seek votes," he said.

On cabinet expansion, he said one should not read much into reports on ministers rushing to meet top party leaders in New Delhi, he said. ''Ministers go to Delhi to seek Central grants. Painting this as lobbying is far from the truth," he added.

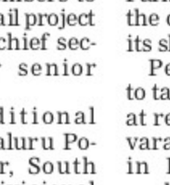
BSY assures MPs of ₹3 crore grant for works

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

MEMBERS of Parliament from Karnataka have sought Rs 3 crore from the State government for taking up development work in their constituencies.

They raised the issue at a meeting of MPs, convened by Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa at his residence on Friday evening. It was attended by at least 12 MPs, sources in the Chief Minister's Office said.

The MPs laid stress on the implementation of Jal Jeevana, the Union government's drinking water scheme, and PM Awas Yojana. BJP MP from Mysuru-Kodagu Prathap Simha told TNIE that it was an informal meeting called by Yediyurappa. "We don't have MPLAD funds, so we sought Rs 3 crore to undertake development works for each Lok Sabha constituency. CM Yediyurappa assured us that he would include it in the next State budget,'' he said.



Besides Prathap Simha, Raichur MP Raja Amareshwara Naik, Kalaburagi MP Umesh Jadhav, Bellary MP Y Devendrappa, Bagalkot MP P C Gaddigoudar, Tumkur MP G S Basavaraj and others attended the meeting.

Sources in the CMO said the meeting was called at short notice, and many MPs were in Delhi and could not attend. "The Chief Minister sought the MPs' help in implementing projects announced by the Central government,'' sources said.

Yediyurappa reportedly told MPs that each time funds or projects are to be sanctioned, ministers visit Delhi and meet various authorities. "An assembly constituency is also part of a Lok Sabha constituency. If MPs meet the people concerned and follow up, it will help the State,'' he said.

None of the Bengaluru MPs attended the meeting -- Union Minister DV Sadananda Gowda is in quarantine, and Bangalore South MP Tejasvi Surya and Bangalore Central MP PC Mohan are in Delhi.

Lingayat proposal could have put Centre in a fix

SOURCES, however, pointed out that the issue of granting OBC tag to the politically dominant community should have been discussed with them before taking it up at the cabinet meeting. "If the proposal had been sent for clearance, the Centre would have been in a fix in approving it, and that's why they asked the CM to put it on hold," they stressed.

Some political analysts also said, "If it had been approved by the State Cabinet and sent to the Centre, and if the Union Government had delayed implementing it, then they could have risked being seen as anti-Lingayat."On the issue of cabinet expansion, the chief minister informed the media that he had spoken to Amit Shah and will take up the exercise shortly.

"We will take a decision after holding discussions", he said. There was however no clarity if he would expand or rejig the cabinet before the legislature session which is scheduled to begin on December 7.

Yediyurappa has been planning to expand the cabinet since September and has made two trips to Delhi for this. But highly placed sources in the BJP insisted that he had not got permission to go ahead with the expansion.

Tulu, Kodava authority needed: Hariprasad

MANGALURU: Kodava and Tulu development authority should be formed and the state government should not neglect these two regions, said Congress leader and MLC B K Hariprasad on Friday. Addressing a press conference, Hariprasad said, "B S Yediyurappa-led government has decided to form Marathi development board, so it cannot ignore these coastal languages. Tulu and Kodava language and prominent personalities from these two regions have made immense contributions to the state." He also termed setting up of Karnataka Veerashaiva- Lingayat Development Corporation and Maratha Development Authority a hasty decision. Commenting on reservation, he urged Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa and PM Narendra Modi to ensure that people get reservation on the basis of population, not on caste. "The BJP has an agenda to take away reservation meant for weaker sections," he added. ENS

NEED INTERNAL QUOTA FOR LINGAYATS: SEER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chitradurga

MURUGA Mutt pontiff Dr Shivamurthy Muruga Sharanaru on Friday stressed that internal reservation under OBC category 2(A) is needed to uplift the Lingayat community.

He told the media persons that there are many people in the community who need financial support to help them get into the mainstream. "It is possible only if there is reservation for the community," he added.

"The Lingayat community is a conglomeration of over 80 sub-sects and they need reservation to have an equal standing in society. The state government should identify the poor and needy within the community and give them internal reservation. At least 15 per cent internal reservation is needed and sufficient modifications should be made in the quota policy. If needed, it should be reorganised too," he said.

HC quashes PIL against appointment of chiefs to boards, corpns

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday declined to entertain a public interest litigation, challenging the appointment of chairpersons to boards and corporations with the rank of ministers, on the grounds that the number of ministers exceeds 15 per cent of the total strength of 225 seats, which is a violation of Article 164(1)(a) of the Constitution.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty disposed of the petition filed by Dr K B Vijaykumar.

The bench said that no material was placed on record to show that the post of chairpersons are equal to ministers and that they cannot become ministers just because they are provided salary and perquisites equivalent to ministers. The existing number of 28 ministers does not exceed 15 per cent and the petition cannot be entertained, it said.

The petitioner contended that with appointments to boards and corporations, the percentage of ministers goes up to 30, which is a violation. Public money too is being misused with these appointments, he argued.

He added that all the chairpersons will have to be treated as ministers as they have been given the benefits equivalent to ministers.

Contending that the position of chairpersons is not different from parliamentary secretaries, the petitioner referred the judgement passed by the High Court in January this year striking down the Karnataka Parliamentary Secretaries Salaries, Allowances and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1963, amended in 1999, which allows the appointment of parliamentary secretaries by the state government.

The bench, however, said that there were specific findings recorded in that judgement. "As far as this petition is concerned, the petitioner has not produced material to show that chairpersons' posts are equivalent to minister," it added.

Pro-terror graffiti surfaces in M'luru

Act of vandalism comes on 12th anniversary of Mumbai terror attack, cops launch probe

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mangaluru

AN inflammatory graffiti, hailing terror outfit Lashkar-e-Toiba, surfaced on the compound wall of an apartment in Kadri police limits on Friday, the 12th anniversary of the 2008 Mumbai attack, leading to public outrage. The police acted quickly to get the graffiti erased before any untoward incident occurred and have launched an investigation.

The message read, "Do not force us to invite Lashkar-e-Toiba and Taliban to deal with Sanghis and Manuvadis. #Lashkar Zindabad." A case has been registered for allegedly promoting enmity between different communities and causing damage to property. A special team is investigating the case and is collecting CCTV footage from nearby buildings, City Police Commissioner Vikas Kumar said.

Police cover the graffiti to avoid any untoward incident, in Mangaluru on Friday

Many leaders from across the political spectrum have condemned the attempt to disrupt peace in the coastal region and demanded the arrest of those responsible. District Youth Congress president Mithun Rai, in a press release, urged the police to immediately nab the miscreants. "This graffiti in support of terror groups is a threat to national security. Such anti-social elements need to be taught a lesson," he said.

State DYFI president Munir Katipalla termed it as a failure of the BJP's governance. "This is also a failure of the police department. People are already in distress and the message in support of terror groups might have been put up to instigate them. After the BJP came to power, law and order has collapsed in Dakshina Kannada and criminal activities are on the rise. If the miscreants are not arrested immediately, we will protest in front of the police station," he warned. Popular Front of India(PFI) district president Ijaz Ahmed also termed it an attempt to disturb peace in the district.

Meanwhile, members of the Vishwa Hindu Parishad, Akhila Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad and Bajrang Dal protested near Mallikatte Circle demanding arrest of those involved in the incident. Hindu Jagarana Vedike members submitted a memorandum to the Kadri police seeking immediate action.

MLA Vedavyas Kamath also held talks with the police officials and said he has directed them to take strict action against the culprits.

'OTT PLATFORMS HAVE DEMOCRATISED CINEMA'

Monsoon Wedding filmmaker Mira Nair talks about how Netflix, Prime have shaken industry up

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bhubaneswar

FILMMAKING is a political act and so is art, said filmmaker Mira Nair. Because a film or a piece of art is a point of view that its maker has and how one can choose to silence a character or give it a body, said the director who is out with her latest release A Suitable Boy, an adaptation of Vikram Seth's namesake novel about India in the 1950s.

Speaking to senior journalist Kaveree Bamzai on the second day of TNIE's Odisha Literary Festival 2020, which was hosted virtually on Friday, Nair said in A Suitable Boy, she has attempted to bring back the politics and the language of the then period (newly independent India) as portrayed in Seth's novel, to the TV drama.

"The adaptation of A Suitable Boy was already being done by Andrew Davies for BBC before I got involved in the project (as the director). There were many constraints, including budget and approach to the Western world, that I had to face. In India, we see the novel as a portrayal of our own people, but in the Western world, they still consider it radical to make a six-part series on a 'brown' epic or a saga that only has South Asians in it. It's extraordinary that this outlook still exists," said Nair, who has so far adapted three novels into films, adding that Vikram and Andrew were porous to the suggestions she made for the TV drama.

> Mira Nair, filmmaker

Nair said the seeds of the politics that is sadly raging in India today were all there in Vikram's novel. "Be it constructing a mosque in front of the temple, the Hindu-Muslim divide, loyal friendships that existed then or the fluid intermingling of cultures," said the filmmaker who was born in Rourkela and spent 18 years of her life in Bhubaneswar.

For her, the adaptation was a reinvention of life of the 1950s which was simple and untarnished by modernity. "Making this film was like going back to the simplicity and actual beauty of a life without advertisements, hoarding, colours — a life that was deeply Indian without us realising or loving it as much," she said. A Suitable Boy was released internationally on Netflix recently.

The filmmaker, whose oeuvre includes films like Salaam Bombay!, Kama Sutra, Monsoon Wedding, The Namesake, The Reluctant Fundamentalist and Mississippi Masala, feels OTTs have changed the game for actors, filmmakers and distribution networks now. "The OTT platforms are unbelievably democratic. A Suitable Boy received much more response than all my films did just because of the accessibility of it. Also, it gives filmmakers the freedom to make long-form cinema," said Nair.

Time to end KCR regime, begin BJP's in TS: Nadda

TRS leaders are looting funds sanctioned by Centre, says BJP prez

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hyderabad

SENDING out a strongly worded message to the ruling TRS party, BJP national president JP Nadda on Friday said that he would not rest until the 'lotus' blooms in Telangana and that he would go anywhere to put an end to a corrupt and dynastic rule.

The BJP national chief was in Hyderabad on Friday to campaign for his party ahead of GHMC elections scheduled for December 1. He participated in a massive roadshow from Kothapet to Nagole crossroads, which was attended by thousands of party supporters even though there were intermittent rains.

Addressing the gathering, Nadda said that he is in the city to send a message to Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao that time has come to end the "KCR regime" and for the BJP to come to power. He alleged that the TRS leaders are looting the funds sanctioned by the Central government.

Nadda also indirectly attacked IT and Industries Minister KT Rama Rao, who had earlier took a potshot at the BJP leadership campaigning for the party in Hyderabad by asking people if they want 'Galli boys or Dilli boys'. Taking the roadshow, Nadda tweeted: "74 lakh voters, 5 Lok Sabha seats, 24 Assembly seats and more than a crore population and this (Hyderabad) looks like a galli to them?"

After the roadshow, Nadda attended a conference with intellectuals where he listed out the achievements of the Central government led by PM Narendra Modi and the list of welfare schemes that are being implemented. There he criticised the Telangana government for not implementing Ayushman Bharat.

Trump may go, but Trumpism will continue to live on: Ed Luce

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

JOURNALIST and author Edward Luce asserts that he has never witnessed an America this toxic and divisive, and the Covid crisis has definitely made it resentful. Luce, whose 2017 book The Retreat of Western Liberalism charted the American economic and geopolitical decline, spoke to author and journalist Kaveree Bamzai at OLF 2020.

"The financial elites around the world are essentially seceding from their national politics. The global elites have a lot in common with each other, for instance, in terms of Ivy League schooling or the kind of elite education they consider for their children, like the Doon schools in India. It's frustrating, it's self-detonating and makes the future worse for their own children because they can't secede to Mars," he shares.

Luce believes that though Donald Trump was eventually defeated in the 2020 election, Trumpism will live on. "I think Trumpism will live on. If you look at the volume of fake news, it's three times the volume as compared to 2016. So the demand for news that strokes your resentment of conspiracy theories is huge. Trump's second term would have been the end of democracy as we know it. His psychology is that either he wins or goes to jail," he adds.

Luce also firmly believes politics is an offspring of culture, which is why extreme wealth inequality also leads to political imbalance. "Ethnic resentments combined with that make it hard for politics, as we used to know it, to happen. It takes a Nehru or a Roosevelt to cut through that. And as much as I like Joe Biden for his intentions and decency, he is going to have a tough time being FDR," he says.

These are the people who don't really need public provided services. It's leading to privatisation of provisions for those who can afford it, therefore decreasing care for those who simply can't

CM visits political secretary in hospital

SOON after learning about the incident, CM Yediyurappa rushed to the hospital and enquired about Santhosh's health condition with the doctors.

Speaking to reporters, Yediyurappa said, "I had met him on Friday morning and we walked together for 45 minutes. Even on Thursday, he had come to a wedding and seemed normal. I don't know why he took such a step".

> Family members said that he was in depression for the last few months and was not talking much to anyone
> Police officer

A senior police officer, quoting Santhosh's family, said the incident took place around 7.30 pm. "According to his family members, he was alone in his room on the first floor. His wife had seen him holding a book in the room a few minutes before he was found unconscious on the bed. The family members immediately rushed him to the nearby M S Ramaiah Hospital. He is undergoing treatment in the ICU," the officer said.

Initial investigations have revealed that Santhosh had consumed 12 pills in a bid to take his own life. "Family members said that he was in depression for the last few months and was not talking much to anyone. Also, he had not disclosed whether he was facing any problem," the officer added.

Santhosh (32) is the grandson of Yediyurappa's sister and was actively involved with the ABVP and the RSS. When the rebel MLAs from the H D Kumaraswamy-led JDS-Congress coalition government resigned, Santhosh reportedly arranged flights, booked tickets for the rebels in Mumbai and Delhi and made arrangements for their stay there. He was always associated with Yediyurappa even when the latter had quit BJP and started the KJP. He is a BE graduate from Kalpataru Institute of Technology in Tiptur and hails from Nonavinakere in Tumakuru district. He was appointed as CM's political secretary on May 28.

A case has been registered at Sadashivanagar police station.

FIVE VARIETIES OF VIRUS-RESISTANT LOCAL CHILLIES TO HIT MARKET

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHILLIES literally add spice to life, and each region has its own special variety. To preserve local varieties and provide seeds to farmers at cheap rates, the Indian Institute of Horticulture Research (IIHR) has developed virus-resistant local chilli varieties, which are likely to hit the market next year.

Speaking at the Aatma Nirbhar Krishi workshop organised by IIHR, its director M R Dinesh said that eight years of research has paid off, and five local varieties varieties will be in the market by December 2021. The use of local varieties of seeds would reduce dependence on imported ones, and save the country around Rs 150-200 crore in foreign exchange, he said. The new varieties are not genetically modified, but have been conventionally bred to make them resist virus attacks. So they would have no side-effects when consumed, he said.

Principal scientist at IIHR for vegetable breeding T Madhavi Reddy said that farmers bought seeds from private firms costing between Rs 40,000 and Rs 70,000 per kg, depending on the demand for the crop. But IIHR would be supplying the seeds at Rs 20,000-Rs 25,000 per kg, based on the region they are to be cultivated in. For example, in Guntur, farmers want chillies 8cm in length and 1cm in width, highly pungent and less wrinkled. But in Maharashtra, the requirement is for less pungent chillies which are rich in colour. Five such segments have been identified to suit local preferences.

Conventional breeding techniques have been used on watermelons too. Reddy said there is high demand for Arka Shama, a variety of oval-shaped watermelon with dark green exterior, brick red on the inside, which is juicy, tasty and has less fibre. They received feedback that there was a high demand for this, and farmers are keen on growing it, she said.

"We (consumers) cannot tell the difference. It is for the benefit of farmers. Most are disease-resistant varieties and consume less water," Reddy said.

IIHR has also partnered with private institutions to come up with innovative snacks such as jackfruit seed and mushroom seed chocolates, jackfruit juice etc.

FOCUS ON RETURNING TO PRE-PANDEMIC GROWTH LEVELS

India's GDP growth contracted by 7.5% in Q2 as against the terrifying 24% decline in Q1, implying that the wrenching times could well be behind us even if we are in a recession. If the nationwide lockdown reduced the country into an economic wasteland, the stronger than expected rebound reinforces hopes of a partial V-shape recovery. On a sequential basis, growth stood at 23%, but experts aren't cock-a-hoop about it, projecting an uneven pace of recovery as the baseline scenario till March. While festive sales momentum, GST collections and others point to rising demand, the key lies in investments and exports, which continue to sulk. Given the limited government spending headroom, recovery prospects squarely hinge on an uptick in private consumption. But urban and rural consumers seem extreme opposites, with the former displaying weak confidence, while the latter are showing resilience.

The demand side saw material improvements in manufacturing, utilities and construction, though only manufacturing returned to positive growth. Despite agriculture's stellar performance, India figures among the slowest-growing economies that announced data for Q2. China, on the other hand, is an outlier, registering 4.9% growth. For the full fiscal, growth will likely contract by 9.5% as per the RBI. That said, nominal GDP contracted by 4% compared to over 20% in Q1 and it's logical to expect a strong rebound in FY22.

Undeniably, this recession is unique for two reasons. One, the slump in GDP growth was deliberate, with the government forcing people to stop in their tracks to rescue themselves and the rest of us. Two, because the economy was subjected to a harsh hibernation as against the ordinary course of growth stimulation, the ongoing contractions aren't strictly comparable with pre-Covid quarters. Why apply normal metrics to such abnormal times? It's clear that FY21 is a lost year and instead of unhelpful speculation, the focus should be on returning to pre-pandemic growth levels. But for that, the only desirable economic shot in the arm alongside the vaccine jab for India is fiscal stimulus. And in big doses.

GOOD JOB OVER NIVAR, BUT BLINDSPOTS REMAIN

In the immediate aftermath of Cyclone Nivar, it would appear that experience has taught the Tamil Nadu government well. Since the 2004 tsunami, the state government has made huge strides in disaster preparedness, rescue and relief, with rehab efforts still having room for improvement. Ahead of Nivar, the state had shifted nearly 2 lakh people to relief camps across the coast—over 50,000 of them in Cuddalore district alone—minimising loss of life due to the storm. Coordination with fishers ensured minimal loss of livelihood, while the agriculture department pushed Delta farmers to sign up for crop insurance before the storm hit so that their investments were secured in the case of damage. In Chennai, where the floods of 2015 brought the city to its knees, the administration has invested ₹2,800 crore on 1,000 km of new drains and worked to revive 210 water bodies since then. The state's efforts, guided by the spot-on predictions of the IMD, amid the Covid-19 pandemic are undoubtedly worthy of praise.

Yet, it must be noted that Nivar proved tamer than initially expected and that some northern districts are still bearing the brunt following heavy rainfall there. It must also be noted that for all its preparations, the state continues to have its blindspots. One is the continued encroachment of floodplains and water bodies, some of them by government agencies. Another is a lack of year-round planning, including to desilt rivers and reservoirs. Experts, for instance, have pointed out that if funds sanctioned to desilt the Chembarambakkam lake had been used, the state need not have released about 10,000 cusecs of water into the Adyar river, while villages around the reservoir were inundated as it filled up. Third, unchecked development continues to outmatch infrastructure, evidenced by the southern suburbs of Chennai remaining flooded and without electricity post-Nivar. Resolving such issues requires foresight and the political will to make some potentially unpopular decisions. Climate change has made extreme weather more common. Governments must accept this reality and work towards creating resilient cities, towns, villages and communities.

The Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code is the reason why India has shot up in 'resolving insolvency' ranks used in the World Bank's ease of doing business indicators

ON EXIT OF CAPITAL AND A PRE-PACK UNDER IBC

BIBEK DEBROY
Chairman, Economic Advisory Council to the PM

AMIT BANDRE

There have been media reports about a pre-pack scheme under the IBC (Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code). If accepted, the idea will need an amendment to the IBC. Reforms are about efficiency and competition. Efficiency, which enhances productivity, also applies to capital markets, and competition requires not just entry of capital, but its exit. If capital is locked up in an enterprise that has failed, that capital is of no use to the economy or to a fresh enterprise. Non-performing assets (NPAs) are just that. They are potential assets, which have become non-productive liabilities.

Since 1991, one has continuously heard the expression "exit policy", though the frequency of usage seems to have declined a bit. That exit policy was typically interpreted as an exit policy for labour. In practice, it is more often an exit policy for capital. There was of course the 1985 Sick Industrial Companies Act (SICA) and the 1993 Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act. These didn't work and in May 2016, we had the IBC, amended five times since then. Has the IBC worked? The answer depends a bit on the metric used for evaluation. Reportage often focuses on companies that have gone through the full process, resulting in a resolution plan or liquidation. For instance, there are 29,514 enterprises with cases under the IBC. There has been a resolution plan in 277 cases and in 1,025 cases, there has been liquidation. Only 7% of cases have gone through the full process.

The liquidated values are low, which is invariably reported in the media. For instance, for the 1,025 companies ordered for liquidation, the liquidation value was only ₹42,362 crore, a mere 7.2% of aggregate claims of ₹5,88,121 crore. This is understandable, since 74% of companies ordered for liquidation were defunct. It is therefore possible to look askance at the IBC process and at what it has achieved. The IBC is law and there is a difference in the way lawyers and economists look at the law, because of the different prisms they use. For instance, suppose I burn your house down. Lawyers and judges will approach it with the static prism of determining whether the penalty imposed on me has adequately compensated you for your loss. This is more a one-shot type of prism. Economists typically approach law with a dynamic and longer-term prism. The issue is not whether I have compensated you enough. The issue is whether law has provided sufficient deterrence for others not to burn down their neighbour's houses. The preventive aspect of law becomes more important than the punitive. I think there is an analogy, because out of the 29,514 cases filed under the IBC, 14,884 cases were withdrawn before submission; 83% of the cases, with a realisation value of ₹5,15,170 crore, were resolved before going through the full process. That's the reason I said the metric used for evaluation is important. The IBC has proved to be a strong deterrent and its recovery rate compares quite favourably with Lok Adalats, Debt Recovery Tribunals and the 2002 Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act. This is also the reason why India has shot up in "resolving insolvency" ranks used in the World Bank's ease of doing business indicators.

> If capital is locked up in an enterprise that has failed, that capital is of no use to the economy or to a fresh enterprise. Non-performing assets are just that. They are potential assets, which have become non-productive liabilities. ...Has the IBC worked? Reportage often focuses on companies that have gone through the full process. But the answer depends on the metric used for evaluation

But this should not be construed as a suggestion that all is well with the IBC. There have been issues with the law and as jurisprudence evolved, there have been amendments in the statute. No doubt there will be more such amendments. More importantly, the process is through the NCLT (National Company Law Tribunal) and NCLAT (National Company Law Appellate Tribunal), which also handle cases under Companies Act and Competition Act. Consider cases pending admission before the NCLT/NCLAT. Out of the 9,549 cases pending, 5,485 have been pending for more than 180 days. For companies that are destined to go through the full process, 74% cases have been going on for more than 270 days and 57% have been going on for more than 330 days. This is not what was promised under the IBC. The complete process should be finished in 180 days, with another 90 days of extension.

When I hear complaints about the IBC, usually, they are complaints about the NCLT/NCLAT process. The immediate reaction to something like this is to increase bench strength. This is the standard reaction to anything concerned with speed of the judicial process—increase the number of courts and number of judges. I don't think that works for the judicial process in general. Specifically, I don't think it will work for the NCLT/NCLAT, not unless we have simpler processes and better (read computerised) management of cases.

The NCLAT/NCLAT, as with other court-driven systems, approach the issue with an adversarial lens. The IBC isn't that. For IBC cases, all one requires from the NCLT/NCLAT is a simple order, giving directions, not complicated "judgments" discussing pros and cons and providing rationale. That's a problem with court judgments in general. Look at the number of appeals that have resulted not from the judgment proper, but from the reasonings given. I am not a lawyer. But I don't think anything under the law requires the NCLT/NCLAT to provide rationale. I don't think anything prevents the NCLT/NCLAT from introducing summary procedures for admission, or placing limits on adjournment or hearing. It can evolve its own procedures and not implant them from the regular court system. I look at the pre-pack system in that light. It's like a mediation or conciliation process, before going to court, so to speak. A good idea.

BORDERLESS UNIVERSITIES ACROSS THE BAY OF BENGAL

D N V KUMARA GURU
Director, External Relations, Indian School of Business

The seven countries that form part of the Bay of Bengal region are home to about 22% of the world's population. Sandwiched between regional groups such as the ASEAN and the SAARC, the nations in the Bay of Bengal region never really gained much traction in achieving their objectives. However, with a formal initiative such as the Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-Sectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation (BIMSTEC) now firmly in place, there is hope for trade-led cooperation. India looks to BIMSTEC to take the lead for greater regional economic cooperation since there are no long-standing political conflicts amongst member countries, unlike India's challenges with Pakistan in SAARC.

It is quite commendable for the member countries to have focused only on regional cooperation through the lens of economic ties since it is the only sustainable means of long-term ties. One of the stated objectives of BIMSTEC is "to provide assistance to each other in the form of training and research facilities in the educational, professional and technical spheres". However, when you peruse the list of sectors identified by BIMSTEC, 'Education' is missing. Home to 1/5th of the world's population and growing at rates that only emerging economies are now known to achieve, it is imperative for education to be a focus area of cooperation. Also evident from the demographic indicators is the fact that the region is home to nearly 25% of the world population of young people in the age group of 10-24.

Borderless education is a term that is gaining currency in recent times. A case can therefore be made for creating meta universities. A meta university is a concept in higher education under which students can pursue their studies in different networked universities both via in-person contact programmes and via technology-assisted platforms. Students can choose to go to a brick-and-mortar university for some duration of their programme and then opt to receive certain credits through technology-assisted learning from another university. This allows students to fulfil their learning objectives through a flexible and innovative choice-based credit system where they can pick credits from more than one university.

Countries in the BIMSTEC region have a perfect setting to experiment with the creation of a network of borderless universities. Let us look at some challenges and ways to address them.

a) Visa: The key to enabling international mobility of faculty and students in the BIMSTEC region is the issue of an appropriate visa. Let us call it the BIMSTEC Study Visa. Students wanting to study in the region should be granted multiple entry, long stay visas. To stay true to the cause of supporting greater regional cooperation, these visas should also allow the students to stay on for a further period of time beyond their programme duration to be able to seek job opportunities, internship or any such relevant experience. Similarly, faculty and academic administrators also need to be brought into this ambit.

> BIMSTEC countries are home to nearly 25% of the world population of young people in the age group of 10-24 and are a perfect setting to experiment with the creation of a network of borderless universities. Let us look at some challenges and ways to address them

b) Regulatory approvals: The concept of borderless universities or meta universities will truly succeed when students are able to gain credits at one university and transfer them to a university in a different country with minimal disruption. This can be achieved on the basis of reciprocal recognition of university standards and degrees. The University Grants Commission or the Higher Education Commission or equivalent bodies of the member countries should be aligned to this concept. Faster recognitions of equivalence and approval of transfers would be key. BIMSTEC can house an Exchange within its secretariat to help push this. The services rendered could be chargeable and thus this could be a self-serving entity in the medium to long term. A biannual summit of regulators can be held to exchange notes on the various reforms being undertaken and to take stock of, and learn from, the global trends in higher education.

c) Financial cooperation: An alliance such as the BIMSTEC would be well served by creating an educational fund that would help universities to scale up to become world-class. The financial assistance could be for specific projects in the form of grants. This will create a spirit of competition for universities in the region to move up.

d) Scholarships and financial aid: Access to high-quality education comes at a cost. Students need to be provided with financial aid and scholarships to pursue programmes at universities in the region. A BIMSTEC Scholarship Fund can help not only address this issue but also incentivise students to study at various universities of the region.

As utopian as it may sound, borderless universities are a reality. World over, networks of universities are already working together to make this concept work. The pandemic has disrupted traditional classroom-led education delivery and learning. It can also accelerate creation of new models and Borderless Universities across the Bay could be one such.

Not unexpected in medicine

The report Oxford vaccine faces questions over quality (Nov 27) shows some volunteers were given a lower-than-intended first dose. But it was a blessing in disguise stimulating further research as the effectiveness of the vaccine was 90% for those who took half the intended dose. Such things are not unexpected in medicine and there is no need to panic.

Great cyclone management

Despite winds as high as 100-130 kmph, heavy downpours, and uprooting of trees and lamp posts, the government and other connected agencies have managed Cyclone Nivar excellently. Loss of life was almost averted. Kudos to Tamil Nadu and Puducherry authorities.

An artist on the field

Diego Armando Maradona was one of the greatest footballers of all time. He grew up in difficult conditions. He was self-made and became the best in football. I still remember watching the 1986 World Cup. He was a real artist on the football field.

Farewell, genius

Maradona was a footballing legend. The Argentine great had plenty of moments of genius in his illustrious career, scoring spectacular goals. But he is also remembered for the infamous one that came against England on 22 June 1986. It was a World Cup quarterfinal clash in Mexico where he scored the "Hand of God" goal using his fist.

Football legend

The news of football champ Maradona's demise has come as a shock to many of his fans. The sports fraternity has lost a shining star who was talented and had a glorious career. May his great soul rest in eternal peace.

Metric can be misleading

This is with reference to BJP show tied to Muslim MLAs (Nov 23). It is interesting to note that in the prime minister's home state of Gujarat (where he was CM earlier), the number of Muslim legislators went up. In Uttar Pradesh, previously ruled by the Samajwadi Party, 44 Muslim legislators were thrown out. The 'population vs legislators elected' metric can be misleading.

Situation worrisome

The article Love Jihad: Loving for religion (Nov 26) makes for compelling reading. The facts stated are worrisome, and leaders of society and lawmakers have to initiate appropriate action before things get out of hand. Even Britain has reported many cases of grooming. It is a serious matter that should not be swept under the carpet of secularism.
G Vijayaraghavan, email

The world as one family

The piece provides a lucid analysis of the concept. The world is now becoming more religious than ever before. The idea of peaceful coexistence considering all as one family has to become more popular. I think another incarnation (avatar) may be required
P Prema, Thanjavur

About love, not religion

Marriage is an union of two grown-ups. In a love marriage, love is the prime ingredient, not religion. The author is silent about the present-day laws of the land. This article is more relevant to the case of grooming of minor non-Muslim girls. But the law is already stringent enough to deal with those cases.
Vinod V, Thiruvananthapuram

Enhance awareness

The column is an eye-opener. Thanks to the author who logically presented the issue with authentic references. I think enhancing social awareness and educating young people about social values and relationships is a preventive for love jihad, which is cancerous for non-Muslim society.

WHILE thousands of farmers from Punjab and Haryana were allowed to enter the national capital on Friday for a planned protest against Centre's new farm laws after a morning of clashes with the police at the Delhi-Haryana border, government sources have claimed that non-uniformity of demands from farmers' unions is leading to inconclusive talks.

But representatives of farmers' unions rejected the government claim, saying they remained united on their demands since day one and only Bharatiya Kisan Union, Punjab, (Rajewal group) president Balbir Singh Rajewal and another farmers' leader Darshan Pal, who had talked to Union ministers and other agriculture ministry officials earlier, were authorised to hold the dialogues with the government. The government sources' claim came even as Union Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar on Friday again appealed to the agitating farmers to end their protests and discuss their issues with the Centre on December 3.

"They and we also knew that in the first meeting with Union ministers, nothing would come out. These are serious issues and need time to be deliberated. We had raised our concerns in those meetings. Now, if they claim that the farmers' unions have put across different demands, it is nothing but a strategy to "misguide" farmers. Only three authorised farmers' leaders had held meetings with the government representatives in the past," a farmer said.

Rajewal and Pal claimed that they had a seven-hour long meeting with Tomar and Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal on November 13 and put forward their points in detail. "We had listed five demands, including revocation of the laws, the MSP should be given and it should be made a law and not just oral assurances by the government, restoration of train services in Punjab, withdrawal of penalties for burning stubble and a cut in diesel tax,'' Rajewal said. Sources in the agriculture ministry said the talks are prolonging as there are many organisations with no uniform set of demands."This is leading to delay in talks and all demands of all organisations need to be kept in mind while discussing the issues," the sources said.

Officials in the ministry said the government is open and ready to discuss all issues. "We know that the talks have been inconclusive so far. But all negotiations take time and this is no different. Like the minister has reiterated on Thursday, we are ready to discuss all issues and come to an amicable solution," an official said. The officials also said assurances were given to the farmers at the meeting.

Farmers lay siege to key highways in northern UP

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

EVEN as the government and Delhi Police were engaged in a battle of nerves on the national capital's western borders, it wasn't all quiet on the eastern front. Farmers groups led by BKU held sit-in protests across several districts of western Uttar Pradesh, blocking highways in support of the farmers from Haryana and Punjab who are spearheading the agitation against the new farm laws.

Farmers led by BKU leader Rakesh Singh Tikait blocked the Yamuna Expressway by squatting on the road, causing a massive jam and preventing traffic movement from Agra to Mathura.

Other western UP districts including Meerut, Baghpat, Muzaffarnagar, Bijnor, Hapur, Shamli, Bulandshahr, Ghaziabad, Noida, Moradabad and Saharanpur also witnessed sit-in protests on the highways. Major traffic disruptions were caused at Nawla Kothi in Muzaffarnagar on Delhi-Dehradun National Highway and in Baghpat on Sonipat highway. Sit-ins were also held in Bundelkhand districts of Lalitpur and Jalaun.

Due to heavy police deployment, however, the situation remained under control. The administrative machinery was already on alert after a call for holding the protests was given by the BKU on Thursday. "Farmers in UP are fully supporting their counterparts in Punjab and Haryana," said Tikait.

Backing the farmers, SP chief Akhilesh Yadav accused the Centre of ignoring their interests while Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra tweeted saying the government is "resorting to every tactic to stop the protesting farmers but it is not able to assure them that MSP is their right".

Congress attacks Modi govt for using force, Rahul says can't stop their battle

NEW DELHI: As thousands of farmers marched towards Delhi opposing the Centre's new farm laws, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Friday attacked Prime Minister Narendra Modi, saying no government in the world can stop farmers fighting the battle of truth.

"No government in the world can stop the farmers who are fighting the battle of truth. The Modi government will have to agree to the demands of the farmers and take back the black laws. This is just the beginning!" Gandhi tweeted the hashtag "IamWithFarmers".

He added that the prime minister should remember that whenever arrogance takes on truth, it gets defeated.

The Congress condemned the use of force on farmers trying to reach the national capital to stage a protest and questioned why the Centre was not willing to engage and hold discussions with the farmers over their concerns.

Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh said the voice of farmers cannot be "muzzled" and asked the BJP-led Centre to hold talks immediately with peasants to defuse the situation.

"The voice of farmers cannot be muzzled indefinitely. Centre should immediately initiate talks with Kisan Union leaders to defuse the tense situation at the Delhi borders. Why wait till December 3 when the situation is getting out of hand now?" said Singh in a tweet.

Posting a video on Twitter of water cannons being used on protesting farmers, Congress general secretary in-charge Uttar Pradesh Priyanka Gandhi said, "To suppress the voice of farmers -- Water was rained on them. Roads are being dug up to stop them. But the government is not ready to show or tell them that where MSP being a legal right is written," she said in a tweet in Hindi. ENS

Farmers' concerns & Centre's assurances

MSP

FARMERS: They say there is no mention of MSP in any of the laws passed and fear that they will not get even the minimum price for their produce

CENTRE: The government has assured the farmers that the MSP will continue and recently even increased the MSP for some products to reassure them

CONTRACT FARMING

FARMERS: Fear that due to the clause which ensures fixed price for produce before sowing, corporates will not like to engage with small and marginal farmers

CENTRE: It claims that the clause has been put in place to allow farmers get a higher price for their produce and also ensure guaranteed buying

APMC

FARMERS: The role of the 'mandi' system or the APMC is unclear and there is also no grievance redressal system in place outside the mandi system

CENTRE: APMCs will not be banned and a new parallel market outside the mandi will be created. This will allow farmers to trade their crop anywhere without boundaries

ESSSENTIAL COMMODITIES

FARMERS: The real beneficiaries are the corporate as the law removes commodities like pulses, cereals and other items from the list of essential commodities

CENTRE: The clause is to transform the sector by deregulating the prices of commodities of pulses, cereals and onions. This will help increase farmers' income

Khattar says govt ready for talks; Amarinder asks why till Dec 3

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chandigarh

HARYANA Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar on Friday said the farmers should directly talk to the Central government for all their legitimate issues as he tries to assure them that the Centre was ready for a solution.

Khattar's Punjab counterpart Capt Amarinder Singh, however, slammed the Haryana government for its continued use of brute force to stop the farmers. "I appeal to farmer brothers to directly talk to the Centre for all their legitimate issues," he said. Khattar told farmers that the path of stir cannot be a medium for the resolution of problems and asserted that a solution will emerge from talks.

Questioning as to why the Centre was waiting for December 3 for holding talks with farmers when the situation was "getting out of control now", the Punjab CM tweeted: "The voice of farmers cannot be muzzled indefinitely. Centre should immediately initiate talks with Kisan Union leaders to defuse the tense situation at the Delhi borders."

Singh further asked the Centre to show statesmanship and accept the farmers' demand for assured minimum support price. "Central govt needs to show statesmanship and accept the farmers' demand for assured MSP, which is the basic right of every farmer. If they can give verbal assurance I fail to understand why they can't make it a legal obligation of the GoI," said the Punjab chief minister.

Later, Singh welcomed the government's decision allowing farmers to enter Delhi. "I welcome the Centre's decision to allow farmers to enter Delhi to exercise their democratic right to protest.

Nepal fundamental to India's Neighbourhood First policy: Shringla

NEW DELHI: Foreign Secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla on Friday said Nepal is fundamental to India's Neighbourhood Policy.

"India's development and modernisation are incomplete and intrinsically and symbiotically linked to the development and modernisation of neighbouring countries such as Nepal," the foreign secretary said while addressing an event at a think-tank in Kathmandu. Shringla is on a two-day visit to Nepal to mend the ties, which took a downward turn after Kathmandu released a new political map showing territories of Lipulekh, Limpiyadhura and Kalapani as its.

The foreign secretary also inaugurated projects built by India in Nepal and said that Nepal holds a very special place in everybody's heart. "We have been glad to able to assist in your reconstruction. Both India and Nepal have young populations, we value education," he said at an event to inaugurate three schools in Gorkha district. He also remotely inaugurated an India-funded project to renovate the Tashop (Tare) Gompa monastery in Manang District. ENS

NSA arrives in Sri Lanka for trilateral maritime talks, calls on PM Rajapaksa

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

NSA Ajit Doval on Friday called on Sri Lankan Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa and also met with the country's defence secretary to further advance the "valuable" bilateral cooperation which contributes to peace and security in the region.

"NSA Ajit Doval arrived in Colombo for trilateral India-Sri Lanka-Maldives consultations on maritime and security cooperation. He was accorded a warm welcome by Army Commander Lt Gen @SilvaShavendra," the Indian High Commission in Colombo tweeted. The dialogue is being held after a gap of six years. The last such meeting was held in 2014. According to sources, Bangladesh, Seychelles and Mauritius will attend the meeting as observers. The dialogue was halted as India-Maldives relations nosedived under the Abdulla Yameen regime due to his perceived closeness to Beijing. While Doval will represent India, Maldives will be represented by its defence minister Mariya Didi.

Doval also met Sri Lankan defence secretary Major Gen (retd) Kamal Gunaratne and they agreed on several steps to further strengthen the "valuable" cooperation between the two countries which also contributes to peace and security in the region.

On Thursday, the EAM in New Delhi said the NSA-level trilateral meeting has served as an effective platform for cooperation among Indian Ocean countries.

Decision to cut ceiling for non-MBBS teachers sparks fear of job losses

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A recent decision by the National Medical Commission to reduce the ceiling for non-medical teachers in medical colleges and even doing away with their appointment altogether in few subjects has sparked fear of job losses by such faculties in various parts of the country.

In the "Minimum Requirements for MBBS Admission Regulations 2020" released by the newly established medical education regulator last month, the permissible intake of non-medical faculty has come down from 30% to 15% in anatomy and physiology, from 50% to 15% in biochemistry, and from 30% to 0% in microbiology and pharmacology.

The Teachers Eligibility and Qualifications guidelines of the previous regulator Medical Council of India on the other hand allowed higher intakes of non-medical teachers to teach pre and para clinical subjects to first and second year MBBS students.

While teachers who teach the clinical subjects in medical colleges are always doctors with MBBS and MS/MD degrees, there are also some teachers–about 5-6,000 in the non-clinical subjects with medical MSc or PhDs who do not have MBBS degrees, their designations ranging from tutor to professor and even head of departments.

The practice of such appointments, for teaching pre and para-clinical subjects started in the 1950s when not many doctors were pursuing PG in non-clinical specialties.

Now, the commission has said that the new guidelines would be applicable only to the new colleges that would admit students into the 2021-22 batch but added that the new guidelines would also apply to those medical colleges that would seek raised intake of MBBS students.

"This means that a non-medical teacher would be forced to stay put in the same college until retirement, and all possibilities to seek new employment in any college, whether new or old, would be denied," said Sridhar Rao, president of the National MSc Medical Teachers' Association.

The current scientist teachers will be forced to work without promotion or pay hikes. The job insecurity will persist forever and their entire career will be spent on fearing termination. They could be exploited to any extent — National MSc Medical Teachers' Association

Breach in Didi's fort as transport minister quits

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

THE fault lines within the ruling Trinamool Congress widened on Friday with Suvendu Adhikari, the transport and irrigation and waterways minister, resigning from the Mamata Banerjee cabinet.

Adhikari is known for his organisational skills and has a support base in East Midnapore district and some other parts of the state. He emailed his resignation to the CM and Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar, who accepted his resignation.

Speculation is rife that Adhikari, who has not attended state cabinet meetings for some months, might join the BJP before the 2021 West Bengal Assembly elections.

> Adhikari's resignation will be a loss to the Trinamool Congress. We will welcome him if he joins the BJP. I have not talked to him, but BJP's door will remain open
> Dilip Ghosh, BJP Bengal chief

The BJP is eyeing formidable political leaders from the ranks of the TMC to bolster the strength of the party ahead of the next year's Assembly elections. Adhikari was one of the protagonists of the Nandigram movement against the Left Front government's land acquisition decision in 2007. He was once close to Mukul Roy, the erstwhile second-in-command in the TMC before he joined the BJP.

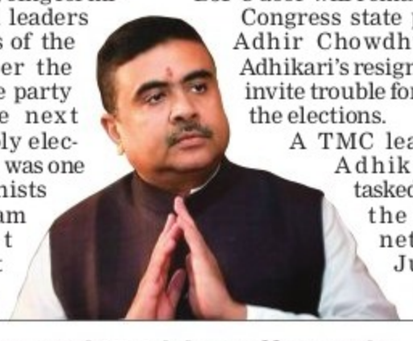
On Thursday, Adhikari had quit as the chairman of the Hooghly River Bridge Corporation — a day after Mamata said she was aware that some TMC workers were in touch with BJP.

TMC MP Saugata Roy said Adhikari is still a party MLA. "Efforts are on to persuade him. His resignation from the state cabinet is his personal decision," said Roy.

BJP's state president Dilip Ghosh said Adhikari's resignation would cause a blow to the TMC. "We will welcome him if he joins the BJP. I have not talked to him, but BJP's door will remain open."

Congress state president Adhir Chowdhury said Adhikari's resignation will invite trouble for the TMC the elections.

A TMC leader said Adhikari was tasked to spread the party's network in Jungalmahal.



Trinamool MLA joins saffron ranks

The BJP also got a shot in the arm on Friday after former Trinamool leader and South Coochbihar MLA Mihir Goswami joined the saffron outfit in Delhi. Two of the BJP MPs accompanied Goswami at the BJP headquarters in an affirmation of the political significance of Goswami.

Fear physical harm, says BJP legislator

BJP MLA Lalan Kumar Paswan, whom RJD chief Lalu Prasad allegedly telephoned, told the Assembly that he feared "physical and mental harm" after having exposed the "powerful" leader. In a deft play of the Dalit card, he said, "as a House member, I seek protection. I feel insecure in the midst of a vitiated political atmosphere. There is still a perception that those from weaker sections are up for sale."

Nitish fumes as Tejashwi goes personal in attack

Bihar CM reminds RJD leader that he kept quiet till now due to his old association with Lalu, tells him to check facts before speaking

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

THE last day of the five-day Bihar Assembly session on Friday saw Chief Minister Nitish Kumar losing his cool while responding to remarks made by leader of the opposition Tejashwi Yadav.

"He (Tejashwi) is lying. I have kept quiet because he is the son of my brother-like friend. I hoped he would mend his ways, but he has made absurd allegations," Kumar said.

The RJD leader during a discussion on the Governor's address referred to a 1991 murder case in which Nitish had already been given a clean chit.

Tejashwi alleged that Nitish was named in that case and a fine of ₹25,000 was charged from him in another case of copyright theft. He was reacting to a political jibe by the CM on RJD chief Lalu Prasad's large family, suggesting that it showed Lalu's preference for male children. "But he (Nitish Kumar) perhaps fearing the birth of a girl, did not go for another child," said Tejashwi.

He also dubbed the ruling party leaders as "thieves and dishonest", provoking the MLAs to troop into the well of the House.

Nitish hit out at Tejashwi, wondering who made him the Leader of Opposition. He asked the Assembly chairman to get the matter examined and action taken against Tejashwi. "Does he know who made his father (Lalu) the leader of the legislature party? Does he know who made him (Tejashwi) a Deputy CM? He should check facts before speaking," said a fuming Nitish.

He said in 2017 when Tejashwi faced charges of corruption, as a CM he had asked the RJD leader to explain his position. "But he did not, and finally I had to quit the government in 2017," Nitish told the House.

Deputy CM Tarkishore Prasad called Tejashwi's remarks shameful and asked him to maintain the House decorum. Amid uproarious scenes, the Speaker adjourned the House for half an hour.

Before Nitish's angry response, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Vijay Kumar Chaudhary countered Tejashwi's allegations, saying the Patna High Court had dismissed the murder case.

Sushil Modi gets RS bypoll ticket

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE BJP on Friday nominated former Bihar deputy chief minister Sushil Kumar Modi for the Rajya Sabha by-elections from the state necessitated after the demise of former Union minister and the Lok Janshakti Party (LJP) founder Ram Vilas Paswan.

While the LJP was hoping to get a party nominee into the Rajya Sabha, Chief Minister Nitish Kumar's JD(U) didn't want any truck with the Chirag Paswan-led outfit. With the BJP leaning towards Nitish's side, the JD(U) appears to have won this round against the LJP.

The Rajya Sabha ticket is also a clear indication of the BJP taking Sushil Modi out of active politics at the state level, creating the ground for a role for him at the national level either in the government or the party. It also indicates that the BJP wants to groom an alternative leadership in Bihar to expand its footprint by accommodating representatives of the extremely backward castes as a counter to the social base of the opposition Rashtriya Janata Dal.

The BJP had committed an RS seat for Ram Vilas Paswan in the run up to the 2019 Lok Sabha elections during its seat-sharing deal.

POWER TUSSLE

You could be out of power, Uddhav to BJP

MUMBAI: The BJP-led central government is misusing investigation agencies like the ED and the CBI to target the Opposition leaders, Maharashtra CM Uddhav Thackeray alleged.

But the BJP, Uddhav added, should not misunderstand his silent and calm nature as submission. "I am against vindictive politics but if someone does, then I will not also hesitate to give them back a test of their own medicine. They should not test our patience and dare to provoke us."

The people who are giving trouble should not forget their past, he said in his interview to Shiv Sena mouthpiece Saamana. "When these people were once in the opposition, Balasaheb Thackeray had helped them. They should not be ungrateful. I come from the land of Chhatrapati Shivaji... I will continue to fight and those are troubling us should also remember that the power is not constant. Today, they are in power, tomorrow they will be in opposition also."

Uddhav also exuded confidence that the Shiv Sena will win the next BMC elections. "The BJP can try, but they will hit their head on the wall. People will continue to vote for the Sena on the agenda of development," he averred. ENS

Civic body's action razing property of Kangana is malice: Bombay HC

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

COMING down hard on the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) for demolishing part of Kangana Ranaut's property in Bandra, the Bombay High Court on Friday termed the action illegal and done out of 'malice' and directed the civic agency to compensate the actor for the damage.

A bench of Justices S J Kathawalla and R I Chagla quashed the BMC's demolition notice and appointed an assessor to evaluate the damage caused so as to decide Kagana's compensation claim. "The court is convinced that the notice dated 7th September, the action of demolition following it on 9th September 2020 are actuated by malafides, and in any event, involve a clear malice in law," the bench said.

The court also reprimanded Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut for his use of expletive against the actress, saying the conduct "does not befit a parliamentarian". The bench, however, said it did not agree with Kangana's utterances and advised her to show restrain in her comments against the government.

In its order, the HC bench said that the photos from the site, documents on record and the chain of events showed that the BMC's action was "predetermined", "malafide" and in breach of a citizen's rights. "The manner in which the action was carried out leaves no doubt that using Section 354 was unauthorised, bad in law and aimed at preventing the petitioner from taking recourse to preventive legal action," it said.

The court noted that the BMC action was abuse of power as Raut "was determined to teach a lesson to the petitioner".

The demolition had followed a war of words between Kangana and Raut.

Reacting to the verdict, Mayor Kishori Pednekar said the BMC had taken action against Kangana's property as per the BMC Act, but will study the court order and act over it.

Eight-phase local polls begin today in J&K

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

ALL is set for the first phase of the maiden eight-phase District Development Council (DDC) elections in Jammu and Kashmir on Saturday. Tight security measures and Covid-19 protocols have been put in place to ensure smooth conduct of the first major electoral exercise in J&K after scrapping of Articles 370 and 35A and bifurcation of the state into two Union Territories on August 5 last year.

Of the total 280 DDC seats — 140 each in Kashmir and Jammu regions — 43 would be going to polls in the first phase. Of these, 25 seats are in 10 districts of the Valley and 18 in 10 districts of Jammu.

State Election Commissioner K K Sharma said all resources have been deployed to ensure safe and peaceful elections in all 10 districts of Kashmir. An additional 165 companies of paramilitary forces have been deployed in the areas going to polls on Saturday to ensure incident-free elections.

All the Covid-19 protocols have also been put in place. The polling stations and counting centres will be sanitised before and after the polling.

Campaigning for the first phase ended on Thursday. The main contest is expected to be between BJP and PAGD. While the PAGD is contesting polls on Articles 370 and 35A plank, the BJP has been harping on "advantages" of abrogation of Article 370.

> Necessary COVID protocols have been put in place for ensuring the safe polls. Foolproof method mechanism has been devised for the postal ballots from absentee voters especially COVID-19 patients in home
> K K Sharma, State Election Commissioner

Being the first electoral exercise after Article 370, the DDC polls assume significance as the people will get to spell out their stand on revocation of Article 370 and also the Gupkar alliance.

"It is a very important election. In fact, it is a sort of referendum on the future of mainstream politics in J&K," said J&K Congress vice-president Ghulam Nabi Monga.

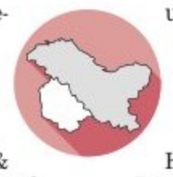
Mehbooba under house arrest? Police say no

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Srinagar

PEOPLES Democratic Party chief Mehbooba Mufti was on Friday allegedly placed under house arrest at her Gupkar residence in Srinagar and barred from holding a press conference.

Police, however, said she was not under house detention even as a security vehicle was parked in front of the main gate of Mehbooba's residence to restrict the movement of people.

"I've been illegally detained yet again. Since two days, J&K admin has refused to allow me to visit @parawahid's family in Pulwama. BJP Ministers & their puppets are allowed to move around in every corner of Kashmir but security is a problem only in my case (sic)," Mehbooba tweeted.



The PDP chief was scheduled to visit the Pulwama residence of party leader Waheed Para, who was arrested by the NIA for his alleged links with terror outfit Hizbul Mujahideen. Para was sent to 15-day NIA remand by a court on Friday. "Waheed was arrested on baseless charges & I am not allowed to even console his family. Even my daughter Iltija has been placed under house arrest because she also wanted to visit Waheed's family."

In the evening, the police issued a statement saying Mehbooba was not under house arrest. "She was requested to postpone her visit to Pulwama purely due to security reasons," it stated.

Eye on polls, youth leader quits AASU

Youth leader Lurinjyoti Gogoi, who rose to limelight during the CAA protests due to his fiery speeches, has quit the apolitical All Assam Students' Union. He was the general secretary of the body. Gogoi is expected to lead the Asom Jatiya Parishad, a political party which AASU and Asom Jatiyatabadi Yuva Chhatra Parishad floated in September. The AJP is expected to contest the assembly polls due early next year. Gogoi said his fight for the cause and interest of the state's indigenous populace would continue. "There is negative politics in the society but we need quality and development-oriented politics," he said.

IIT-Guwahati's free-space optical communication

A research team from the IIT-Guwahati has developed a free-space optical communication system for information transfer. Under this, data in the form of voice, text or image is transmitted using light wirelessly. The results of the work were recently published in "Communications Physics", a well-known journal. The research team was led by Dr Bosanta Ranjan Boruah and Dr Santanu Konwar of IIT-Guwahati. "...Data transmitted wirelessly using light/laser beams, can become corrupted when transmitted through atmospheric turbulence such as wind. To overcome this, researchers used orthogonal spatial light modes called Zernike modes to encode the data and to transmit the same robustly in the form of the phase profile of a laser beam," the institute said in a statement.

Kamakhya temple gets golden dome

The Kamakhya temple has got a new look, thanks to the construction of golden dome unveiled last week. Earlier, the Reliance Industries Limited had donated 19 kg gold for the dome and work had begun in mid-September. RIL had also sent engineers and artisans for the gold-plating work. The temple, perched atop the Nilachal Hills in the heart of Guwahati, opened for devotees in October after being closed for months due to the pandemic. According to the available records, the temple was rebuilt by Nara Narayan, the last ruler of undivided Koch kingdom of Kamata. The priests believe it existed from the time of The Mahabharata.

Graffiti protest demands release of jailed activist

The police in Guwahati had detained four artists for painting the graffiti of jailed activist Akhil Gogoi. However, the act triggered a wave of art works on public walls the next day. Several graffiti, posters and slogans demanding Gogoi's release surfaced in several parts of the state. The artists detained in Guwahati were from a group called "Anga Arts". Their art work depicted Gogoi being taken away by the cops. Gogoi, a leader of peasants' body Krishak Mukti Sangram Samitee, was arrested by the police in the wake of violent CAA protests in December. Later, the NIA took his custody for alleged linkage with the CPI (Maoist) and charged him under the UAPA.

Head of Iran's defunct nuke programme assassinated

Top scientist reportedly helmed covert nuclear weapons programme

DUBAI

AN Iranian scientist named by Israel as the leader of the Islamic Republic's disbanded military nuclear programme was killed Friday in an ambush on the outskirts of Tehran, authorities said.

Iran's foreign minister alleged the killing of Mohsen Fakhrizadeh bore "serious indications" of an Israeli role, but did not elaborate. Israel, long suspected of killing several Iranian nuclear scientists a decade ago, declined to comment. Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu once told the public to "remember that name" when talking about Fakhrizadeh.

The killing risks further raising tensions across West Asia, nearly a year after Iran and the US stood on the brink of war when an American drone strike killed a top Iranian general in Baghdad. It comes just as US President-elect Joe Biden stands poised to be inaugurated in January and will likely complicate his efforts to return America to a pact aimed at ensuring Iran does not have enough highly enriched uranium to make a nuclear weapon.

That deal, which saw Iran limit its uranium enrichment in exchange for the lifting of economic sanctions, has entirely unraveled after US President Donald Trump withdrew from the accord in 2018.

Trump himself retweeted a posting from Israeli journalist Yossi Melman, an expert on the Israeli Mossad intelligence service, about the killing. Melman's tweet called the killing a "major psychological and professional blow for Iran."

Mohsen Fakhrizadeh

After losing the election in the first week of November, Trump had asked senior advisers on November 12 whether he had options to act against Iran's main nuclear site in Natanz before he leaves office.

Fakhrizadeh, thought to be 59, was the architect of a covert nuclear weapons programme that was disbanded in 2003, as per US intelligence agencies.

Details about the slaying remained slim in the hours after the attack, which happened in Absard, a village just east of the capital that is a retreat for the Iranian elite. Iranian state television said an old truck with explosives hidden under a load of wood blew up near a sedan carrying Fakhrizadeh. As Fakhrizadeh's sedan stopped, at least five gunmen emerged and raked the car with rapid fire, the semiofficial Tasnim news agency said.

Fakhrizadeh died at a hospital after doctors and paramedics couldn't revive him. Others wounded included Fakhrizadeh's bodyguards.

Hossein Dehghan, an adviser to Iran's supreme leader and a presidential candidate in Iran's 2021 election, blamed Israel — and issued a warning.

"In the last days of their gambling ally's political life, the Zionists seek to intensify and increase pressure on Iran to wage a full-blown war," Dehghan wrote, appearing to refer to Trump's last days in office. "We will descend like lightning on the killers of this oppressed martyr and we will make them regret their actions!" Agencies

Will leave if Electoral College says Joe won: Don

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump still won't bring himself to concede the election he decisively lost to President-elect Joe Biden. But he's now acknowledging he will leave the White House if Biden's win is affirmed by the Electoral College, which is firmly on track to do just that in a few weeks.

"Certainly I will," he said Thursday when asked if he will vacate the premises after electors make Biden's win formal. "But you know that."

Trump, who took questions from reporters for the first time since the election, unleashed another round of complaints about the vote and theatrical warnings that "a lot of things" would happen before the Electoral College meets Dec. 14 that could possibly change results. But while he's stirring uncertainty about how he will behave in the weeks ahead, there is no real suspense about the outcome.

All states must certify their results before the Electoral College meets and any challenge must be resolved by Dec. 8. States have already begun that process, including Michigan, where Trump and his allies tried and failed to delay the process, and Georgia and Pennsylvania.

Nothing stands in the way of Biden taking office January 20. AP

China's 'shadow trade war' may weaken Aus economy

SYDNEY

BITING new Chinese trade tariffs have stoked fears that Australia's virus-weakened economy is being targeted for political retribution and the two countries may be sliding into a shadow trade war.

Since Canberra pointedly demanded an investigation into the origins and spread of the coronavirus, the number of Aussie businesses being squeezed in China has exploded. Crates of Australian rock lobsters have been left to rot at a Chinese airport, and mountains of coal have been stuck in Chinese ports.

On Friday, Beijing turned the screw again, hitting Australian wine exports with punitive tariffs of up to 212 percent, essentially closing off a US$1 billion market.

In total, 13 sectors have been targeted according to a running tally from Jeffrey Wilson, a trade expert with the Perth USAsia Centre think tank.

The list so far includes barley, beef, coal, copper, cotton, lobsters, sugar, timber, tourism, universities, wine, wheat and wool.

Wilson estimates the total value of Australian goods at risk at around US$40 billion.

It is an eye-watering number that represents 12 percent of all Australia's exports, in a country experiencing its first recession in 30 years.

Beyond the fear, fury and headline-grabbing restrictions, trade experts say the overall economic impact for Australia has so far been more modest.

"The number of industries that have been sanctioned is large, but the direct economic impact to the economy as a whole in Australia is going to be significantly smaller," said Wilson.

He estimates the actual economic impact may be US$2 billion to US$4 billion, and perhaps less if affected firms look for other export markets.

Curbs on Australian beef have affected only four meat processing plants, three of which are not Australian-owned. And China's suggestion that its tourists and students boycott Australia poses only a limited threat while there is a virtual Covid-19 ban on travel Down Under. AFP

N Korea executed people over Covid-19

SEOUL

NORTH Korean leader Kim Jong Un has ordered at least two people executed, banned fishing at sea and locked down the capital, Pyongyang, as part of frantic efforts to guard against the coronavirus and its economic damage, South Korea's spy agency told lawmakers Friday.

Kim's government also ordered diplomats overseas to refrain from any acts that could provoke the United States because it is worried about President-elect Joe Biden's expected new approach toward North Korea, lawmakers told reporters after attending a private briefing by the National Intelligence Service.

One of the lawmakers, Ha Tae-keung, quoted the NIS as saying Kim is displaying "excessive anger" and taking "irrational measures" over the pandemic and its economic impact.

Ha said the NIS told lawmakers that North Korea executed a high-profile money changer in Pyongyang last month after holding the person responsible for a falling exchange rate. He quoted the NIS as saying that North Korea also executed a key official in August for violating government regulations restricting goods brought from abroad. The two people weren't identified by name.

North Korea has also banned fishing and salt production at sea to prevent seawater from being infected with the virus, the NIS told lawmakers. AP

Fitch doubts Lanka's ability to repay debts

Fitch on Friday became the latest ratings agency to cut Sri Lanka's credit score, expressing fears over Colombo's ability to repay its foreign debts. Fitch said Sri Lanka's 2021 budget unveiled last week foreseeing a $8.45-billion deficit in 2021 lacked a "credible fiscal consolidation strategy". The international ratings agency downgraded Sri Lanka by one notch to "CCC" from "B", denoting that a debt default is a "real possibility". The downgrade came a day after the Central Bank of Sri Lanka said it had estimated the country's GDP would shrink by 1.7% this year, but Fitch said it was less optimistic and forecast a contraction 6.7%. The central bank announced Thursday that it hoped the country could save about $4.0 billion this year as a result of a ban on non-essential imports.

Indonesian police have moved a female transgender Instagram celebrity, Millen Cyrus, to a special cell following public outrage over her initial placement in a male detention cell after she was arrested as a suspect in a drug case. "As for her status on her ID, she is a male, and we do not have a transgender status here. So to avoid something we do not want, we placed her in a special cell by herself. That is our policy on it," Jakarta Police spokesperson Yusri Yunus said on Friday.

Thailand, Philippines sign for AstraZeneca Covid-19 vaccine

Thailand on Friday signed a $200 million deal to procure 26 million doses of a trial coronavirus vaccine developed by AstraZeneca in collaboration with Oxford University. It is expected to be delivered in mid-2021. The doses would cover 13 million people in a population of about 69 million. Thailand's National Vaccine Institute signed a non-refundable advance market commitment contract worth 2.38 billion baht ($79 million) with AstraZeneca to reserve the supply of the vaccine. Another 3.67 billion baht ($121 million) agreement for the purchase of the trial vaccine, known as AZD1222, was signed by the Disease Control Department. The AstraZeneca vaccine is seen as advantageous due to cheaper cost and the ability to be stored at less-cold temperatures.

WORKERS PROTEST TO 'MAKE AMAZON PAY'

DHAKA

ACTIVISTS and Amazon workers across the world are holding protests to demand higher pay, better working conditions, an end to union-busting and the company's commitment to zero emissions by 2030.

Amazon warehouse workers and climate activists also launched an online campaign, "Make Amazon Pay", to push their list of demands.

The demonstrations come as The New York Times reported that Amazon has hired an unprecedented number of people this year (graphic above). Amazon has seen an extraordinary growth in sales during the pandemic and its revenues are expected to soar during the holiday season as well.

"During the Covid-19 pandemic, Amazon became a trillion dollar corporation, with Bezos becoming the first person in history to amass $200 billion in personal wealth. Meanwhile, Amazon warehouse workers risked their lives as essential workers, and only briefly received an increase in pay," read a statement from the campaign, which was launched on Black Friday.

Other organisations such as Progressive International, Amazon Workers International, 350.org and Greenpeace are part of the campaign.

"Make Amazon Pay" told media outlets that protests were planned in 15 countries including India.

The campaign also calls on Amazon to pay its fair share of taxes. "Like all major corporations, Amazon's success would be impossible without the public institutions that citizens built together over generations. But instead of giving back to the societies that helped it grow, the corporation starves them of tax revenue through its world beating efforts at tax dodging. In 2019, Amazon paid just 1.2% tax in the US, the country it is headquartered in, up from 0% the two previous years. Amazon is not alone in these bad practices but it sits at the heart of a failed system," the statement read.

Govt caps cab aggregators' commission at 20%

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

REELING out a fresh set of guidelines to regulate cab aggregators in the country, the government on Friday said that companies such as Uber and Ola can charge up to 20 per cent commission on ride fares while the remaining should be given to the driver partners. Capping the "surge price" asked by these aggregators in times of high demand to 1.5 times the base fare, the government also restricted the discount offered by them to 50 per cent of the base fare to limit fare volatility.

"The driver of a vehicle integrated with the aggregator shall receive at least 80 per cent of the fare applicable on each ride and the remaining charges for each ride shall be received by the aggregator," the transport ministry said. It added that the state governments may by way of a notification direct two per cent over and above the fare towards the state exchequer for amenities and programmes related to aggregator operated vehicles, which have been helpful in reducing traffic congestion to a great extent and subsequently reducing pollution. Typically, cab operators follow a dynamic pricing model wherein price of a ride automatically rises when demand outstrips supply within a fixed geographic area. In states where the taxi fare has not been determined by the local government, ₹25/30 shall be the base fare for regulation.

Similar fixation shall be done by the state government for other vehicles integrated with aggregators. Like cabs, some companies also offer bike rides. The base fare varies from state to state. These norms have been laid out in the 26-page Motor Vehicle Aggregator Guidelines issued by the government on November 27.

When contacted, both Ola and Uber declined to comment. Drivers, however, hailed the move, adding that commission should not have been more than 10 per cent. "At present, they are charging 25-30 per cent commission on every ride merely for being a broker. This is too much. Moreover, the incentive we used to earn earlier has come down drastically over the years," Shaik Salauddin, National General Secretary of Federation Of App-Based Transport Workers (IFAT) told this publication.

MALAYSIA

TRADE SURPLUS WIDENS

Malaysia's October exports rose 0.2% from a year earlier, beating expectations on higher shipments of palm oil and manufactured goods, data showed. Imports in October shrank 6% over last year compared to the 3.6% drop in September. The country's trade surplus in October widened to RM 22.12 billion, registering a double-digit growth of 25.9% -- the highest trade surplus ever recorded for the month. "The expansion was supported by higher exports to the US, China, India and the UK," the Ministry of International Trade and Industry said. Compared to September, total trade in October expanded by 2.6%, while exports and imports grew by 2.4% and 2.9% respectively. Agriculture exports surged by 28.7% boosted mainly by higher shipments of palm oil and palm-oil based agriculture products. However, trade with ASEAN in October decreased by 10.4% over last year.

HONG KONG

STOCKS CLOSE AT 9-MONTH HIGH

Hong Kong stocks ended at a nine-month high on Friday buoyed by upbeat profits from industrial firms pointing to a sustained recovery in China's economy. The Hang Seng index rose 0.3% -- its highest closing level since February 21. For the week, HSI shop was up 1.7%, while the Hang Seng financials index gained 3.7% for the week, its fourth straight weekly gain. China's central bank said it would make prudent monetary policy flexible and targeted and reiterated not to resort to flood-like stimulus. Earlier in the week, Hong Kong's Chief Executive Carrie Lam defended Beijing's tightening grip over the financial hub announcing new steps to boost economic links with the mainland. She believes the economy can benefit from its proximity to the mainland and the central government's long-standing support under the 'one country, two systems' principle.

CHINA

INDUSTRIAL PROFITS ZOOM IN OCTOBER

Profits at China's industrial firms grew in October for a sixth consecutive month and the growth was higher than September's 10.1%. In October, profits surged 28.2% over last year at $97.79 billion, official data showed. This is the quickest pace since early 2017, and points to a steady recovery in the manufacturing sector that was hit hard by Covid-19. China's industrial sector has seen an impressive recovery from the coronavirus fallout, helped by resilient demand for the country's exports. For the January-October period, industrial firms' profits rose 0.7% on an annual basis, after falling 2.4% in the first nine months of 2020 compared with the same period last year. Meanwhile, liabilities at industrial firms rose 6.8% in October as against 6.6% in September. Private sector profits grew 1.1% during January-October compared with a 0.5% decline in the first nine months.

Gas reforms to bring in unified tariff system, open up sector to competition

JONATHAN ANANDA @ New Delhi

INDIA's oil and gas market regulator PNGRB (Petroleum and Natural Gas Regulatory Board) has notified some keenly-awaited changes in regulations governing city gas markets. The tweaks do much to throw open the sector to competition, but also extend some protection over the existing investments of incumbent players.

The most impactful change for consumers is set to be the new unified tariff system. So far, tariffs had been set depending on how far, or near, the consumer was from the gas source. This resulted in progressively higher charges the further away they were from the coast (LNG import terminals).

The new system, however, will put in place just two tariff zones: Zone-I will comprise areas within 300 km from the gas source, and Zone-II everything beyond. According to market experts, the new system will result in customers near the source pay around 20-30 per cent more in transportation charges, but will lead to a substantial cost reduction in the hinterlands.

More important from an industry standpoint, perhaps, is the rolling out of open market access — a proposal that had come in for vehement opposition from incumbents. CGD players have market exclusivity and feared that the decision to allow open access to 20 per cent of capacity would eat into their own investments. It is to be noted that many CNG players dispense gas from outlets located in oil marketing companies' fuel stations and major OMCs have expressed a keen interest in venturing into the CGD sector themselves.

However, the final notification includes some protection. "The notification restricts existing OMC co-located CNG outlets from selling CNG under open access route mitigating any negative impact on existing earnings of CGD companies in the CNG segment," noted analysts from brokerage Jefferies India. CGD companies consequently saw share prices soar on Friday, with Indraprastha Gas Ltd (IGL) and Mahanagar Gas Ltd (MGL) scrip rising 9.5 per cent and 13.7 per cent respectively.

However, others say these are merely stop-gaps and that incumbents will have to prepare. "Regulations do not allow OMCs to terminate agreements with incumbent and set up their own dispensers in CNG stations where the incumbent had one, as PNGRB wants new infrastructure creation. Whether OMCs can set up own dispensers while continuing to dispense CNG for incumbents is a grey area," said ICICI Securities. "Even if OMCs can install CNG dispensers only at stations where incumbents do not have a presence, it can only delay competition, which would eventually hit volume growth and margins of incumbents".

₹9.53 L cr — Fiscal deficit during April-Oct
₹7.96 L cr — Full-year budget estimate
3.5% — Centre's FY21 fiscal deficit target

Fiscal deficit touches 120% of annual target

In absolute terms, the fiscal deficit stood at ₹9.53 lakh crore at October-end, shows data

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA's fiscal deficit stood at ₹9.53 lakh crore during April-October, which is 119.7 percent of the budget target mainly on account of weak revenue collection, shows data released by the Controller General of Accounts. In the year-ago period, the fiscal deficit was at ₹7.96 lakh crore or 102.4 per cent of the budgeted target.

Revenue receipts for the same period was dismal at ₹6.71 lakh crore or 34.2 per cent of the budgeted target during the period as against 46.2 per cent of the budget estimate last year. The non-tax revenue from April to October 2020 stood at ₹1.16 lakh crore in comparison to ₹2.24 lakh crore, while tax revenue stood at ₹8.75 lakh crore against ₹10.52 lakh crore on year-on-year basis. Despite improvement in October tax collection, experts claim that it cannot make up for all loss registered on account of Covid-19 in the previous months.

"While tax collections can increase in proportion to growth in the next 4 months, it may not be possible to recoup the losses in the first 7-8 months," Madan Sabnavis, chief economist, CARE Ratings said. This keeps the slippage on account of fiscal deficit high in the coming months despite curb in government expenditure. The data further revealed that the total expenditure was at ₹16.61 lakh crore or 54.6 per cent of the budgeted estimate, as against 59.4 per cent posted during the same period last year, mainly as the government continued with its austerity drive. While the government announced a host of stimulus measures, it has done so by cutting corners from other ministries. For instance, higher spending by the consumer affairs and rural development ministries has meant cuts in housing, rural development, railways and roads to control expenditure.

The Centre has retained this year's fiscal deficit target at 3.5% of GDP but experts believe it will be higher at 7.5-9.25 per cent. "We believe the deficits based on the expenditure allocations announced by the finance minister will double this amount taking the ratio of close to 9-9.25 per cent for the year," Sabnavis noted.

PSUs find it difficult to meet capex target as finances dry up

JAYANTA ROY CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

STATE-run companies, who are being pushed to meet capital expenditure targets in order to strengthen the country's industrial growth which grew by just 0.2 per cent last September, are finding it difficult to meet deadlines given financial and project implementation constraints.

The government has already cracked the whip asking all PSUs to achieve 75 per cent of capex spending by December-end and more than 100 per cent by March-end. However, the chances of meeting the target are slim, say officials who attended the fifth of a series of meetings held at North Bloc on the issue. A total of 10 PSUs from power, mines and atomic energy ministries who met finance ministry officials on Friday have managed to spend less than 40 per cent of the capital outlay of over ₹61,000 crore earmarked for the year.

Higher dividends

Officials say that oil sector PSUs have been told to increase their capex from the current ₹1 lakh crore to ₹2 lakh crore next fiscal

The problem for these PSUs is that besides being a year beset by the pandemic which has slowed down project implementation, they are short of cash. According to the chairman-cum-managing director of a power sector PSU "for several years we have been shelling out extraordinary dividend payouts to help the government exchequer, some of us have also gone for share buy-backs, which has depleted our reserves."

The chairman pointed out that even earlier this month a communique from the government asked PSUs who normally pay a high dividend to "consider" paying dividend on a quarterly basis and the rest on half-yearly basis. "These demands place cash flow problems for us, especially in a year when sales are slow and orders are few and far in between."

Several PSUs have been raising money and running expenses through a culmination of bonds and bank loans to pay for the capex plans which they have been told has to be substantially increased next financial year.

Vi to offer more, signs up health, edtech firms

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BUNDLING has long been the name of the game in the telecom space and Vi's (erstwhile Vodafone Idea) Friday announcement dove-tails the trend. According to a company statement, the telco has signed up multiple partners in the edtech and healthcare segments, and the partnerships will result in Vi customers getting exclusive benefits.

VIL has entered into strategic partnerships with players spanning "Learning & Upskilling, Health & Wellness, and Business" including those such as upGrad, Udemy, Pedagogy, cure.fit, 1mg, MFine, Eunimart, Hubbler and Fiskl. It also plans to undertake several other such agreements, it added. "One of the key pillars of VIL's business strategy is to drive partnerships and digital revenue streams, across segments. This will help us drive more value for our customers and offer growth opportunities for the business," said Vodafone Idea CEO Ravinder Takkar.

Through the tie-ups, Vi will offer its subscribers a 10 per cent fee waiver on upGrad, get around 60 free courses on Udemy, and access to content including JEE and NEET sample tests on Pedagogy. As for the health sector, the benefits include discounts on medicine purchases on 1mg, and free trials on cure.fit and Mfine.

> One of the key pillars of VIL's business strategy is to drive partnerships and digital revenue streams, across segments. This will help us drive more value for our customers...
> Ravinder Takkar, CEO, Vodafone Idea

Analysts say bundling such offerings has been a go-to strategy for telcos to increase the value propositions. "Tariffs are already too low to provide any profit margins, so offering more value by slashing prices is out of the question now—in fact, telcos are expected to raise prices soon. The best way is to offer more features to users along with their subscriptions," said a senior analyst.

Nissan bets big on Magnite, opens 50 service and sales outlets ahead of launch

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

JAPANESE carmaker Nissan on Friday said that it has opened 30 service and 20 sales touch points across the country as it looks to strengthen its presence ahead of the launch of its upcoming four-wheeler Magnite.The compact SUV, which is slated for launch on December 2, is seen as a make or break vehicle for Nissan India. The carmaker is expected to price the vehicle at a much lower price than other compact SUVs to offer a value for money product since its last launch 'Kicks' did not kick off on Indian roads.

Nissan said expanding its reach is in line with the Nissan NEXT strategy to prioritize and invest in the Indian market for sustainable growth. "With India gradually becoming a more strategic base for value-added services, Nissan's new and improved initiatives will underscore our desire to give customers a hassle-free, safe, and satisfying sales and service process that is enhanced by a comprehensive digital ecosystem for discerning customers," said Rakesh Srivastava, MD, Nissan Motor India.

The company has also introduced 'Nissan Express Service' to deliver a quick and comprehensive service experience in just 90-minutes. Nissan India will extend its consumer service reach by conducting "Nissan Service Clinics" in 100+ upcountry locations. "Customers may book services and check costs online through the Nissan Service Cost Calculator via Nissan Service Hub (website) or Nissan Connect, bringing utmost transparency to the process supported by Nissan's 24/7 Roadside Assistance available in over 1500 cities," the carmaker added.

Experts: Worst may be over for country

IN absolute numbers, national output fell to ₹33.14 lakh crore from ₹35 lakh crore recorded in the year-ago period. In the previous quarter, it had stood at ₹26.9 lakh crore.

So, on a sequential basis, it amounts to a growth of 23.2%. While the danger of a second wave of the pandemic still looms large, experts believe the worst may be over as most economic parameters have improved. For example, manufacturing and electricity sectors bounced back, growing 0.6% and 4.4%, respectively. Agriculture continued to grow, at 3.4%.

MAIDEN OFFERING

Burger King India IPO to open on Dec 2

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

EVERSTONE Capital backed-fast food chain Burger King India Ltd is looking to raise ₹450 crore from its maiden offering to be used for loan repayments and expansion of its store network.

The company on Friday set the price band at ₹59-60 per share for its initial public offering (IPO) which is slated for launch on December 2. The proposed IPO will see the company raise ₹810 crore, comprising a fresh issue of shares amounting to ₹450 crore, while the promoter entity QSR Asia Pte Ltd will sell up to six crore shares, aggregating to ₹360 crore at the upper price band.

The proceeds from the IPO will be used to roll out of new company-owned Burger King Restaurants, the company said in its red herring prospectus.

In financial year 2019-20, the company had reported revenues of ₹841 crore and a loss of ₹77.6 crore. Its losses had widened during the first six months of 2020-21 to ₹119 crore from ₹17.4 crore in the previous year. Burger King currently operates about 270 outlets. While just 59 of these restaurants remained operational in March amidst the lockdown, a total of 226 restaurants were operational as of September with gradual reopening, the company noted.

START-UPS

Zoho Corp, Freshworks locked in legal battle over data theft

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

THE posterboys of India's SaaS (Software as a service) industry, Sridhar Vembu and Girish Mathrubootham, are currently fighting each other in a US district court over allegations of misappropriation of trade secrets and data theft. A fresh lawsuit was filed against Freshworks, a Chennai based start-up headed by Mathrubootham, by Zoho Corp and the US Court has sought a response from Freshworks by December 7 against the accusations laid by Vembu's Zoho.

The San Francisco-based company has alleged of unauthorised access to the Customer Relationship Management (CRM) software in which a senior official of Freshworks is said to be involved. In the fresh plea, Zoho asked Freshworks for the discovery "of the scope of unauthorised access" that it might have in case of sensitive data as well as other employees who might be involved in this, along with a compensation of $5000 for the damages caused.

Both Zoho Corp and Freshworks when contacted by the TNIE declined to comment over the issue citing it as sub-judice. The controversy escalated after March 2020, when Zoho levied charges of violation of Defense of Trade Secrets Act and various other trade laws of the US by Freshworks accusing the rival firm of building its entire business model by stealing sensitive information from Zoho including trade secrets like critical client data, software products and even pricing strategy.

In October, Freshworks' plea before the Northern District of California Court for dismissal of Zoho's plea was rejected. It also came to the fore that a former regional head at Freshworks, Malikarjun Ravikumar, as informed by Zoho in its current complaint, had admitted to stealing CRM data and using the same for Freshworks. Ravikumar is not associated with Freshworks anymore.

How and where it all began?

Sources say that the tussle began ever since Mathrubootham who was a product development manager at Zoho left the company to start Freshworks in 2001. Zoho Corp which is a bootstrapped start-up.

Odds favour Australia in Whatmore's book

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

Winners of the Test series the last time they played in Australia, India will have to contend with a different side this time. According to Dav Whatmore, the return of Steve Smith and David Warner makes the home team stronger. He also thinks Virat Kohli's absence in three of the four Tests will make it tougher for the visitors.

"An India-Australia series is always a hard fought one. This one will be no different. Home advantage will have a small influence. Smith and Warner will definitely give confidence to other players. Australia will feel stronger, but will still need to work hard against a decent Indian attack," the Australia-based Whatmore told Express.

Coach of the India U-19 team lead by Kohli that won the World Cup in 2008, the former Australia batsman felt his departure to be on paternity leave after the first Test will affect India's chances. "Yes it will. Kohli's absence will be felt despite what some may say. He is aggressive and central to India's success."

Inclusion of the uncapped Will Pucovski in the Test squad has sparked a debate whether he should replace Joe Burns as Warner's opening partner. Whatmore feels he is still to be tested. "He has loads of potential. He has scored heavily in the first couple of games in Sheffield Shield, but against ordinary opposition and on flat surfaces."

1 BOWLER & 66 RUNS SHORT

Lack of sixth bowling option in absence of Pandya hurts Kohli

VENKATA KRISHNA B

AMONG Indian captains who have led in more than 30 ODIs, nobody has a better win percentage than Virat Kohli's 71.02. He has won 62 of 90 matches as skipper and is 14 wins away from overtaking Sourav Ganguly at No 3. MS Dhoni is on top with 110 wins and it is a number Kohli can well overtake if he retains the captaincy till the 2023 World Cup. But at the moment, he is severely handicapped in the bowling department.

On Friday, as India began the tour of Australia with a 66-run loss in Sydney, one could understand Kohli's frustration. In 2020, India are fielding a team from a different era, with five bowling options. With Hardik Pandya still recovering from a back injury and in the process of resuming bowling again, Kohli is missing his bowling more than ever. Particularly on days when Australians target rookie Navdeep Saini on a flat deck and captain had no option but to continue with him.

Barring Mohammed Shami, the rest of the attack including Jasprit Bumrah, Yuzvendra Chahal and Ravindra Jadeja couldn't control the run flow and sloppy fielding added to their misery. As Aaron Finch and David Warner batted effortlessly, you knew India were in for a long day, nowhere to hide in the huge outfield. Unlike his immediate predecessors, Kohli is saddled with a set of batsmen who don't bowl. This has always been the case after he took over as captain in 2016, but he still had Pandya and even Kedar Jadhav in the mix.

But with Jadhav out of reckoning and Pandya playing as a batsman, Kohli doesn't have a sixth bowler. Manish Pandey and Shubman Gill, batsmen who warmed the bench on Friday, don't bowl either. The only way out is playing an extra bowler on Sunday. But that leaves them with a long tail, as none of the frontline bowlers barring Ravindra Jadeja are handy with the bat.

Pandya, who top-scored with 90, said India have to groom someone from within as there are not many outside who can do the job. Vijay Shankar and Shivam Dube are options, but not in the scheme of things now. "I think, we will have to find someone who has already played for India and groom them and find a way to make them play. It is always going to be difficult when you go with five bowlers, because if somebody is having an off day, you won't have someone to fulfil that role. If someone is having a bad day and there is a sixth option, other guys gets more cushion," Pandya said.

This is the fourth straight ODI India have lost and until they address this issue, Kohli may have to endure more of this. As far Pandya's bowling, he isn't sure when he would resume doing that. "I'm thinking long term, not short term where I exhaust myself and have something else which is not there. I can't say exactly when I'm going to bowl."

Shikhar Dhawan fails to catch Steve Smith at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Friday. India's fielding was poor in the opening game | AP

Sailing: Incident-free nationals in Mumbai, a big plus for host

SRINIDHI PR @Chennai

IN the time of global crisis, conducting a tournament at the national level without a coronavirus scare can be considered a small achievement. Especially in a country like India where the new number of coronavirus cases is still a cause for concern. For the Yachting Association of India (YAI) and the host, Indian Naval Watermanship Training Centre (INWTC) in Mumbai, organising the senior nationals — the first major sailing event since the lockdown — without incident has provided a relief.

The week-long event, which ended on Friday, saw around 100 sailors taking part with no participant or the support staff testing positive. The major test for the hosts was assembling the sailors from different parts of the country along with their boats in Mumbai. Creating space for isolation rooms ready in case of any positive cases and conducting RT-PCR tests inside the training centre were a few challenges for the INWTC. "It wasn't easy getting all of the participants together during difficult times. We had to make sure we have accommodation for them including the Covid facility and the lab to conduct the tests," said a member of the INWTC on the condition of the anonymity.

Another challenge that was touched upon was the logistics involved with getting the boats from various cities to Mumbai. Unlike normal circumstances, athletes had to use separate boats with the standard operating procedure of the meet stating there shouldn't be any sharing of equipment. "There were about 99 boats for the sailors taking part in the meet," added the INWTC member. "Transportation of boats was a bit tricky. Everybody had to use separate equipment, sanitise it regularly. With a limited number of contracts available to transport the boats to Mumbai, that was quite challenging."

After Dubai camp, Srihari changes coach

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

SRIHARI Nataraj is looking ahead to what promises to be a promising 2021. After returning from a training stint in Dubai, he is almost up to speed. "If you ask me to swim now, I could clock the times I had during Khelo India," he told this daily.

"But I would say I'm not yet at my peak." He now believes he is again accustomed to the feel of water, something swimmers the world over focussed on after having spent months without training.

To help him reach his optimum best, his parents have taken the decision to put him under noted coach Nihar Ameen. BFC aim for 3 points against Hyderabad

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

GREAT teams are characterised also by how well they bounce back. It will be a test of character and discipline when Bengaluru FC face Hyderabad FC at Fatorda Stadium in Goa on Saturday. In their previous game, the Blues squandered a two-goal lead to share the spoils against FC Goa. They cannot afford their opponents such luxury while in full control of the game.

Since that result, they had six days to evaluate their performance and more importantly, work on the fitness of players, who had a short pre-season. "We are training hard and we have a calendar that allowed us to prepare for six more days. Some of the players had been training for two weeks and now they have three weeks. We are fitter. The mood in the training camp is also positive," said Bengaluru head coach Carles Cuadrat, who added that his team has a different plan for Hyderabad.

With the number of quality players and their ISL experience, Bengaluru, at least on paper, should start as favourites. They look strong in all departments. If Sunil Chhetri is one of their key attackers, the likes of Erik Paartalu and Juanan in midfield and defence, respectively, have established themselves as key players for the club. Add new signing Cleiton Silva, who scored on his debut, Kristian Ospeth and others in the mix alongside a tactical coach like Cuadrat, it appears to be a matter of time before they get their A game going. It will be interesting to see if influential midfielder Dimas Delgado, who did not start the last game, will be included in the XI.

Hyderabad, on the other hand, come into this game with a spring in their steps. They came up with a dominant performance to win three points against Odisha FC and had a clean sheet to show for their defensive efforts as well. That backline will be tested by the Bengaluru forwards.

"That win (against Odisha) gives us a lot of confidence. Teams with confidence play better. Even if you don't play a good game, victories give confidence to the team and players. For me, every game is hard. Till now, of the seven games, there have been five with a one-goal difference and two draws. It is a sign that it is very difficult to win by a comfortable margin," said Hyderabad coach Manuel Marquez, who lauded his opposite number as a 'great coach', expecting a tough game on Saturday.

HIGH-OCTANE CLASH

Mohun Bagan prevail in Kolkata Derby

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

ATK Mohun Bagan emerged victorious over SC East Bengal in the first Kolkata Derby of the ISL, courtesy second-half goals from Roy Krishna and Manvir Singh. Two wins from as many matches put the defending champions on top of the standings. For the Red and Gold brigade, their ISL sojourn began with a disappointing loss.

Prior to the historic contest, SCEB coach and Liverpool legend Robbie Fowler made it clear that his team would be massive underdogs due to their last-minute entry into the league and a curtailed preseason. While his players tried hard, the gulf in class shone through.

"It was our first game together and we didn't have a pre-season game, which showed. In terms of performance, it wasn't that bad. It's tough with the squad we got and we were the last team to put a squad together. We will go again," Fowler said.

ATKMB's Antonio Habas' game plan worked to perfection. He let the opposition have possession, but never allowed them to carve any real openings. So far, ATKMB have scored thrice, haven't conceded and they are looking strong. "I think the team had a good performance. We were better than the opponents and I have to congratulate my team for that," Habas said post match.

While the first half was one of attrition, Fijian Krishna broke the deadlock with a rasping left footer from the edge of the box. Debjit Majumder dived to his left but the ball had too much power for the custodian.

With a one-goal lead, Habas asked his men to sit back and the second goal was from a lightning counterattack finished brilliantly by Manvir. The only performance of note from East Bengal came from Anthony Pilkington, while the others struggled to create.

SOUND WAVES TO POWER DRUG DELIVERY

Australian scientists have successfully demonstrated how high-frequency sound waves can be used to build new materials, make smart nanoparticles and even deliver drugs to the lungs for painless, needle-free vaccinations. We take a look

LOW FREQUENCY

Sound waves have been part of science and medicine for decades

1942

Ultrasound first used for clinical imaging

1980s

Ultrasound used for driving chemical reactions

However, the technologies have always relied on low frequencies

HIGH FREQUENCY

Now researchers at RMIT University in Melbourne have shown how high frequency sound waves could revolutionise the field of ultrasound-driven chemistry

The study published in Advanced Science reveals the bizarre effects of these sound waves on materials and cells, such as molecules that seem to spontaneously order themselves after being hit with the sonic equivalent of a semi-trailer

When we couple high-frequency sound waves into fluids, materials and cells, the effects are extraordinary. We've harnessed the power of these sound waves to develop innovative biomedical technologies and to synthesise advanced materials

Leslie Yeo, RMIT University

APPLICATIONS OF THE TECHNOLOGY

DRUG DELIVERY TO THE LUNGS

The patented nebulisation technology could deliver life-saving drugs and vaccines by inhalation, rather than through injections

DRUG-PROTECTING NANOPARTICLES

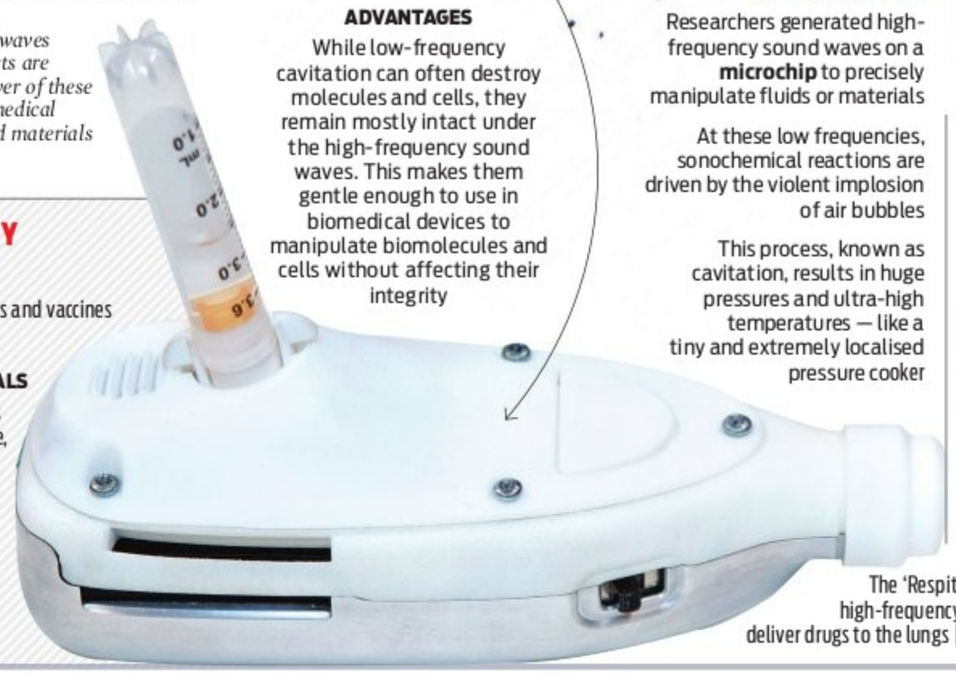
Encapsulating drugs in special nano-coatings to protect them from deterioration, control their release over time and ensure they precisely target the right places in the body like tumours or infections

BREAKTHROUGH SMART MATERIALS

Sustainable production of super-porous nanomaterials that can be used to store, separate, release, protect almost anything

NANO-MANUFACTURING 2D MATERIALS

Rapid exfoliation of atomically-thin quantum dots and nanosheets



ADVANTAGES

While low-frequency cavitation can often destroy molecules and cells, they remain mostly intact under the high-frequency sound waves. This makes them gentle enough to use in biomedical devices to manipulate biomolecules and cells without affecting their integrity

POWERING CHEMISTRY WITH SOUND

Researchers generated high-frequency sound waves on a microchip to precisely manipulate fluids or materials

At these low frequencies, sonochemical reactions are driven by the violent implosion of air bubbles

This process, known as cavitation, results in huge pressures and ultra-high temperatures — like a tiny and extremely localised pressure cooker

10 kHz

Ultrasound has long been used at low frequencies (around 10 kHz to 3 MHz) to drive chemical reactions

The 'Respite' nebuliser uses high-frequency sound waves to deliver drugs to the lungs | RMIT UNIVERSITY

ADVANCED NEBULISER

- The researchers developed a drug delivery device that can precisely deliver large molecules such as DNA and antibodies, unlike existing nebulisers
- This opens the potential for painless, needle-free vaccinations and treatments
- The nebuliser uses high-frequency sound waves to excite the surface of the fluid or drug, generating a fine mist that can deliver larger biological molecules directly to the lungs
- The nebuliser technology can also be used to encapsulate a drug in protective polymer nanoparticles, in a one-step process bringing together nano-manufacturing and drug delivery
- In addition, the researchers have shown irradiating cells with the high-frequency sound waves allows therapeutic molecules to be inserted into the cells without damage, a technique that can be used in emerging cell-based therapies

Surge in robot hiring even during the pandemic

Automation is expected to disrupt 85 million jobs by 2025 as digitisation in workplace increases, a WEF report warns

ECONOMY

WASHINGTON: From a hamburger flipping robot in Texas to 'ninja robots' measuring fevers in Bangkok, automatons are enjoying the moment.

Immune to the novel coronavirus, machines have been deployed by many business establishments even when the pandemic has led to millions of people losing their jobs, globally. According to the US Bureau of Labor Statistics, 11 million people were left unemployed in October, compared to about six million during the same period last year. Though humans are increasingly losing their jobs, robots have rather become a hot commodity.

According to a recent report in The Guardian, technology manufacturers have registered a surge in the demand for robots during the pandemic.

From drone-like machines to AI-powered customer service software, manufacturers are seeing an uptick in the adoption of their technology.

A World Economic Forum report titled The Future of Jobs 2020 found that Covid-19 has caused the labour market to change faster than expected.

By 2025, automation and a new division of labour between humans and machines will disrupt 85 million jobs globally in medium and large businesses across 15 industries and 26 economies, the report said.

Occupations in the fields such as data entry, accounting and administrative support are decreasing in demand as automation and digitisation in the workplace increases.

More than 80 per cent of business executives are accelerating plans to digitise work processes and deploy new technologies; and 50 per cent of employers are expecting to accelerate the automation of some roles in their companies., the report said.

Economists have well-documented the impact of recession on the growth of automation and warn that its adoption does not grow steadily, but rather happens in bursts.

A 2016 study by University of Rochester, found that employers in cities that were hit hardest by the Great Recession were replacing workers with labour-saving technology and more skilled workers.

The World Economic Forum report that tracked the impact of Covid-19 on the US labour market found between February and May 2020, displaced workers were, on average, mostly female, younger and had a lower wage.

In comparison of impact of the global financial crisis of 2008 on individuals with lower education levels to that of the current pandemic, the negative effect is far more significant and more likely to deepen existing inequalities.

Filters to catch microfibres

ENVIRONMENT

A UK-based environmental charity has said that washing machines in the country should be legally required to have special filters to catch plastic microfibres released from clothing. The Marine Conservation Society has been demanding for the compulsory use of filters by 2024. Around 15 per cent of plastic is used to make synthetic fibres, such as polyester and nylon, mainly for clothing. According to a survey, more than four-fifths of the participants agreed that such a measure should be implemented, with 26 per cent of them saying they were willing to pay extra for the new filter-added machines. In September, a study reported that washing machines dumped 16,5,000 tonnes of synthetic fibres into the ocean each year and 1,75,000 tonnes on land.

SPACE

The European Space Agency (ESA) has signed a 86-million-euros contract with an industrial team led by the Swiss startup ClearSpace SA for safe removal of an inactive object from low Earth orbit. With this contract signature, a critical milestone for establishing a new commercial sector in space will be achieved, ESA said on Thursday. The mission will target the Vespa — Vega Secondary Payload Adapter. As a result, in 2025, ClearSpace will launch the first active debris removal mission, ClearSpace-1, which will rendezvous, capture and bring down for reentry a Vespa payload adapter. This object was left in an 801 km by 664 km-altitude gradual disposal orbit following the second flight of Vega back in 2013.

How SARS-CoV-2 hijacks body cells' cholesterol system

HEALTH

BEIJING: The SARS-CoV-2 virus, which causes Covid-19, may hijack our cells' internal cholesterol processing system to help it spread through the body, according to a study which hints at new targets for a potential therapy against the disease.

The cell culture study, published in Nature Metabolism, identifies a potential molecular connection between cholesterol metabolism and Covid-19. The researchers from the Academy of Military Medical Sciences (AMMS) in China found that the SARS-CoV-2 virus sticks to a receptor on the human cells that usually binds to HDL cholesterol, also known as 'good' cholesterol.

When the scientists blocked the cholesterol receptor in the cells, the virus was no longer able to stick to them. They say this hints at new targets for treatment, although this is very early-stage research.

The study suggests that SARS-CoV-2 may use the cell's internal cholesterol mechanisms to enhance infection.

During SARS-CoV-2 infection, the spike protein on the virus binds a host-cell receptor called angiotensin-converting enzyme 2 (ACE2).

Researchers highlight the role of another receptor, called HDL scavenger receptor B type 1 (SR-B1), which is expressed in several tissues, including human lung cells.

This receptor usually binds high-density lipoprotein (HDL).

However, in this study, the viral spike protein bound cholesterol, and expression of SR-B1 and the presence of HDL together helped the virus bind and enter ACE2-expressing cells.

The virus seems to hijack the cell's cholesterol-uptake machinery to facilitate entry into host cells, but when the researchers blocked this pathway with a monoclonal antibody or a specific pharmacological antagonist of SR-B1, the HDL-mediated enhancement of viral infection was absent.

US to probe Tesla's suspension failures

AUTOMOBILES

DETROIT: The US government's road safety agency is investigating complaints that suspensions can fail on nearly 1,15,000 Tesla electric vehicles.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says it has 43 complaints that linkages near the ball joints can fail, allowing contact between the tire and wheel liner.

The probe, announced on Friday on the agency's website, covers 2015 through 2017 Model S sedans and 2016 through 2017 Model X SUVs.

The agency says 32 owners complained of failures at low speeds, but 11 said the links failed on roads while travelling above 16 kmph including four at highway speeds. It says the number of complaints is increasing as the vehicles age, with 32 in the last two years. Three of the highway complaints came in the last three months. In addition, NHTSA says it has eight complaints that may involve suspension failures unconfirmed by photos or service records.

Singer Cher to help Kaavan, 'world's loneliest jumbo'

WILDLIFE

ISLAMABAD: Iconic singer and actress Cher is in Pakistan to celebrate the departure of Kaavan, dubbed the "world's loneliest elephant," who will soon leave a Pakistani zoo for better conditions after years of lobbying by animal rights groups and activists.

Because of security concerns, Cher's schedule was not made public. However, she met Prime Minister Imran Khan on Friday and was expected to visit Kaavan later in the trip, according to the prime minister's office. Khan's office released a video of the singer sitting with the prime minister outside on the expansive grounds of Khan's residence.

Kaavan, has languished in the zoo for 35 years, and lost his partner in 2012. He was diagnosed by veterinarians as both overweight and malnourished, and also suffers behavioral issues due to his isolation.

Kaavan is set to leave for a sanctuary in Cambodia on Sunday, said Martin Bauer of Four Paws International, a global animal welfare group that's led the charge to save him since 2016. Cher took up Kaavan's cause and has been a loud voice advocating for his resettlement. Four Paws, which often carries out animal rescue missions, has provided the medical treatment needed before Kaavan can travel and will accompany him to the sanctuary. Even after he's in Cambodia, he'll require years of physical and even psychological assistance, Bauer said.

Because of the abysmal living conditions blamed on systemic negligence, Pakistan's high court in May ordered the closure of Marghazar Zoo in Islamabad, where Kaavan has lived for much of his life. A medical examination in September showed Kaavan's nails were cracked and overgrown.

Steam-powered print

A double version of Koenig's cylinder printing press printed The Times of London, the first newspaper to be printed on a steam-driven machine, on this day in 1814

THE INVENTION

The invention of the industrial cylinder press by Friedrich Koenig was influenced by two ideas — using steam to run the machine, and use of rotary metal cylinders, which allowed each page to be printed on both sides at the same time

IN THE LEAD

Koenig was a German inventor, who moved to London and set up a workshop with German watchmaker Andreas Bauer. The Times bought two machines. It rolled out 1,100 pages an hour

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

John Walter II announced in The Times "Our Journal of this day presents to the public the practical result of the greatest improvement connected with printing, since the discovery of the art itself."

Internet sensation Arya Dhayal's latest track blends pop and Carnatic music and saw more than 90,000 views in one day alone

RHYTHMS AND RAGAS

Known for her mash-ups, city-based singer Arya Dhayal is out with a new song, this time an original one. Dhayal, who previously combined Ed Sheeran's Shape Of You with Carnatic music, is already making waves with her new single. Called King of my Kind, it quickly went viral with 94,000 views in 23 hours. This tune too blends Carnatic music with pop. "The song is about my dreams, my feelings, the hurdles I face in a gender-biased society, and how I see my future," says Dhayal, who wrote the song when she was 17 years old.

Many might not know but this is actually her second single, the first one was called Try Myself, which came years before her fan following on the internet. Dhayal, who has 3.5 lakh subscribers on her YouTube channel, credits her new song to her followers. "The video looks great but it would not have been possible without people's support. For example, I had earlier made a video about me coming out with my new single and shared it on Instagram. So many reached out with financial aid without me even asking for it," adds Dhayal.

Although fans love her Carnatic or regional songs, she does not want to restrict herself from experimenting and pushing her boundaries. She wants to explore new aspects of music and says, "Language plays an important role since people connect to that. My Malayalam songs will have more likes over anything else. But I don't want to stop trying out new songs in English." The 24-year-old doesn't just sing but pens her own songs too. Currently, she is undertaking training for civil services exams in Bengaluru. But Dhayal soon plans to move to Kochi, because her team and music is mostly based out of there.

Dhayal went viral during the lockdown when she started posting videos of fusion jamming sessions while playing the ukelele. Her following on Instagram soon grew from 4,000 to almost 30 lakh now. "Initially, the overnight fame felt like a responsibility but later I had to tell myself to calm down," laughs Dhayal. Her fan base now includes Bollywood star Amitabh Bachchan, who even shared one of her videos on social media during his Covid-recovery stint at Nanavati Hospital. "What is more interesting to me is that someone who doesn't know you personally can still support and listen to your music," says Dhayal.

'I RECOMMENDED ANOTHER ACTOR FOR MY PART IN TENET'

...says Dimple Kapadia, who has now done her first Hollywood project in Christopher Nolan's time-bending film

Sudhir Srinivasan

At 63, after many ebbs and troughs in a striking film career, after the transition from actor to star and now to actor again, Dimple Kapadia has done her first Hollywood film – Christopher Nolan's Tenet. She plays an arms dealer called Priya, who at one point, tells the main character (John David Washington) that there is more than one protagonist in this film, referring to herself. The actor talks about her experience, why she was hesitant about auditioning for this film and of course, working with Nolan.

A still from the film

After all this time, it must have been strange to have to audition for a role.

(Laughs) Yes. It was a two-page monologue. The truth is, I tried every trick out there not to do this. I don't do auditions generally and didn't want to — not even for Tenet. At my age, you begin to ask what you are going to get now, doing a Hollywood film. My agent was insistent though and wouldn't take no for an answer. In fact, I even recommended another actor for this part. But eventually, I did the audition once I ran out of excuses. Everyone must have thought I was nuts.

So, the allure of Hollywood is lost on you?

Not at all. Nolan is every actor's dream, damn it! I guess I was concerned about my own shortcomings. I was not sure if I could belong in a film like this. That's what it was. I had a lot of nervous energy even after I was signed for this film. It's a dream come true to have featured in a Nolan film.

I understand that the full script of the film wasn't shared with the cast, including members like Michael Caine. Have you seen the film?

Yes, I have.

Can I ask if you feel like you understood all of it?

(Laughs) Though I have read the script a few times and now, have watched the film, I will have to watch it at least two more times to get it fully. I think that's because he has packed in so much into this film. The more you watch, the deeper you can wade into it.

Your character is an arms dealer who doesn't emote much and remains careful about what she says...

I read my character's part many times. The idea was for me to put myself in Priya's shoes as much as possible. As I am not a trained actor, I rely on my instincts. So, it was important for me to understand how Nolan saw this character. Once I got that, it was a matter of following his vision. Surprisingly, I found the lines to be straightforward, even though Priya is a woman who speaks about topics like nuclear energy I don't know the ABCD of. I also admired the commitment of the crew. I have a two-line voice-over in this film, and while they could have simply dubbed it, they insisted on shooting it. I found that to be an advertisement of intent.

'LOCAL ART FORMS MUST BE A PART OF SCHOOL CURRICULUM'

• Priyanka K Mohan, Yakshagana artiste and artistic director, Yakshadegula

AMONG the multiple issues affecting our city, the one which is often considered not important enough is our art, culture and heritage. Many of you might say, "I thought art and culture in the city is at its best now." It is encouraging compared to the past, but at the same time, it isn't the same for all art forms, barring a few that have got recognition among the elite.

Most Bangaloreans remember folk artistes only during November, to enhance a procession or to welcome chief guests. Today, it is disheartening to see a new trend of folk artistes walking along the bride and groom in weddings.

Bengaluru is home to several budding folk artistes, who come to the city with a dream to make it big. Gig economy jobs are more lucrative than depending on folk performances today, so fewer youngsters are entering this field.

Druthi, my neighbour's kid, is excited about her day as she has a dance period in her time table. Thanks to online classes, I got to watch her take classes last week. As the class began, the artiste in me began to think, our own arts offer so much beyond just the skill of performing for a child's development. I wonder, is it because our folk/classical songs are not made to sound as cool as 'Dance Monkey' that schools aren't considering them? Or is it that parents think their children would find more value if they are exposed to non-Indian art? Or is it just a lack of effort from our end to place our art at par with others?

Solution: If we expose our kids to local performing arts, it will not only increase their interest, but they will also grow up to promote and support them. Making these a part of curriculum will also help artistes get steady income, and motivate them to work more in the field.

Let your mixed feelings about Bengaluru get stirred up, as an influential person talks about things nice and nasty about the city in this weekly column

CREATIVE CONNECTIONS

The physical museum may be delayed by a year, but the Museum of Art and Photography is all set for a virtual launch with its week-long programme

Monika Monalisa

This year has been full of heartbreaking news but here's a small slice of something good for art lovers. The Museum of Art and Photography (MAP) is planning to have a digital launch of the museum with its virtual festival: Art (is) Life, from Dec 5-11, to celebrate various art forms. The opening of the physical museum, which was set to take place in December this year, has been pushed to next year due to a delay in work caused by the pandemic. MAP, which has a collection of over 18,000 artworks, dating from the 10th century to the present, is trying to reach out to a global audience with its curated experiences and audience interactions, through the digital programme.

According to founder-trustee Abhishek Poddar, their vision has always been to make the collection available to the world.

Peacock by Jangarh Singh Shyam

Kamini Sawhney

"Launching digitally is the next step for MAP to achieve its agenda of inclusion and accessibility. In challenging times such as these, museums and cultural institutions need to rethink and reinvent themselves to be relevant," says Poddar, adding that MAP's digital launch is the birth of a new-era museum.

Echoing similar thoughts, museum director Kamini Sawhney says they are working on creative ways to bring art to everyone. "The programme will showcase how the arts are interconnected, and each enriches the other. This is reflective of the museum's vision to draw connections across the collection, creating unique narratives," says Sawhney, adding that the commissioned performances and collaborations with international institutions offers a glimpse of what is to come with the museum.

The digital programme will also showcase performances in music, dance, poetry, and technology, by prominent artists like art historian Dr B N Goswamy; actors Nandita Das and Arundhati Nag; poet-lyricist Javed Akhtar, dance Malvika Sarukkai, and painter Jitish Kallat. The event will also see the launch of their initiative, Museums Without Borders. This is a collaboration with 50 international institutions that will juxtapose a pair of objects from their collections and MAP's to discover the differences and connections between two objects. Some of the participating institutions are the British Museum; Museum of Fine Arts, Boston; Detroit Institute of Arts, and Rhode School of Design.

MATSYA KRIDASANA
(FLAPPING FISH POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'matsya' means 'fish', 'krida' means 'play' or 'flap', and 'asana' means 'pose'. It is a restful and restorative yogasana which is known to promote relaxation. It is called flapping fish pose because the shape of the body in this posture resembles a flapping fish. This asana can be practiced with the eyes closed to maximise the restorative benefits. It is sometimes recommended for women during pregnancy because of the quiet ease it cultivates. Physically, the focus of Matsya Kridasana is on the relaxation of the body and calm, easy breathing. Energetically, the focus can be taken to the Manipura (solar plexus) chakra. It releases tension in the whole body and mind. Since it is a relaxation asana, it can be performed as a counter pose to backward bending asanas like Kandharasana or Chakrasana. The practitioner need not exert himself or herself to touch their elbow with the knee.

STEPS

- Lie down on your stomach in a relaxed way and turn your head to the left side.
- Place your right palms over the left and rest your head on top of palms.
- Bend your left leg and move your left knee as close to the ribs as possible.
- Your right leg should remain straight.
- This is the final resting pose. The body will be relaxed and a slight pull is felt on the waist region.
- Maintain the position for as long as it is comfortable.
- Breathe slowly and normally. Rest every part of the body and be aware of the breath.
- Repeat the pose with your head turned towards the right, right leg bent and left leg remaining straight.

BENEFITS

- Relieves sciatic nerve pain and is also good for people suffering from lower back pain.
- Relaxes tension in the perineum.
- An ideal pose for relaxing and sleeping for pregnant women who are in the later stage of pregnancy.
- Pregnant women can also practice yoga nidra in this pose.
- Stimulates digestive peristalsis.
- Can be used as a counter pose to the backward bending asanas like Kandharasana or Chakrasana.
- Cools down the mind and relieves stress.
- Can relieve lower back pain.

LIMITATIONS

- Avoid this asana in case of severe back pain.
- Don't overexert the body in an effort to touch the knee with the respective elbow.

GETTING BACK THE MOJO

Good morning, fellow voyagers!

These last two weeks have been loaded with epiphanies. I have firmly believed that the Universe opens doors, showing us an alternative way of being, but being brainless homo-sapiens, we firmly kick it shut. Guilty as charged! I realised that slowly and steadily I have been kicking many of these doors shut and completely justifying it in my mind that the vision offered was not for me. Societal pressure, wanting to 'look good' pressures, adhering to set norms pressures... Bah! (As uncle Scrooge would say). Slowly and surely, I lost my fire, my spunk and my ability to speak up for what I believed in. OMG! I had lost my mojo! I'd become just as boring, inconsequential and cowardly as the rest of the people I swore never to become. A party favourite, amusing and popular, my lips getting redder with more garish lip colours and my heels getting more uncomfortable with each new shoe! When did I metamorphose into this creature even I don't recognise? It's like the 'Stockholm Syndrome' as my son says. I have spent so much time with my 'captors' that I started becoming one of them. Sheesh!

My biggest epiphany came when my son started his vlog, Loud Gay Brown Totally honest. His honesty and courage in dealing with longstanding myths and discriminations in the LGBTQ community were admirable and funny. This is when it hit me the hardest. What have I become? After all, I am the 'mothership', who taught him to be who is without fear, then why have I started caring about what 'the people who never ever mattered' would say or do? Ever since the lockdown has eased I have been a big crusader about wearing masks. Not as chin guards or thongs that barely cover one's mouth or nose, but as a service to yourself and people around you. All of us have been emotionally and financially hurt by Cardi-V in one way or another. Why can't we behave responsibly and obey rules that even our government has deemed mandatory? Suddenly, I have become a 'persona non grata' for calling out some boors of big star properties for not wearing masks! They are sulking! And like I care! This is just as bad as witnessing harassment or discrimination and turning a blind eye because they may not invite you again. The 'usual suspects' (I love that term!) may quaver in their high-priced shoes, but not this 'woke' or 'lit' babe!

My fortnight was spent eating, drinking and generally being merry (in places where wearing masks is mandatory except while eating or drinking). I had a fabulous dinner at good friends Irfan and Sabina Vazirali's home where we gorged on marvellous biryani and kebabs. I was also a guest of Dr. Marjorie Vanbaelinghem, consul general of France, for a Bon-Diwali Zoom party with industry bigwigs like Dr. Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw and Biren Ghosh. With a 2011 bottle of Bordeaux, Ponet-Canet for company, it was truly a 'bon' evening.

The assisted Sunday brunch at the Lantern at The Ritz-Carlton, headed by Cantonese chef Chow Chee Meng and executive chef Sandeep Kalra, is a winner for sure. The chef's adherence to tradition was admirable but still, the meal was contemporary and fresh. The Peking duck cooked and served faultlessly. The Hainanese chicken rice which is a national dish of Singapore but honestly, I preferred it at the Lantern. The Char Siu pork with Jasmine rice and the silken homemade bean curd in oyster sauce, the baos, the dim-sums... and the list of offerings seem endless. After a long time, my family and I enjoyed an afternoon of culinary excellence, sitting in the dappled sunlight with all safety measures in place Now that's not asking for much, is it?

TRAVEL BITES IN A BOX

Take your taste buds on a trip around the world with these ready-to-cook meal kits, inspired by a new country each month

• Monika Monalisa

What are your strongest travel memories made of? For Arnav Seth and Aaron Barboza, it's food from the different lands they visit. The two friends have come up with a project called Koi, where they bring a blend of their two favourite things – food and travel. Every month has a new theme, inspired from a different country, and a ready-to-cook meal that is intrinsic to it. The duo has already covered countries like South Korea, Thailand, Greece and Vietnam. For this month, they've chosen Spain, while for December, they making an assorted snack box that will contain dishes from South Korea, Thailand, France and Japan.

Currently available only in Mumbai and Bengaluru, each meal has three courses – an appetiser, a main and a dessert or condiment. In a bid to recreate the perfect taste, they procure authentic spices or vegetables grown in similar weather conditions. "The mushrooms used in paella taste different because they are grown in the Mediterranean belt. We got in touch with vendors in Mumbai and Bengaluru who supply to gourmet restaurants. They grow their vegetables in a specific temperature," says Seth. For meat and seafood, they just go with the required cuts.

The culinary journey started with Seth replicating food items from his travels. "Being unable to step out turned everyone into a home chef. Before the lockdown, I had extensively travelled to Southeast Asian countries and tried replicating their noodles and soup. When I told Aaron what I was up to, he also shared his inputs," says Seth, who works in strategy for an edtech company and started this venture in July. After the initial response from friends and family turned out to be positive, the two launched the project officially.

> —Arnav Seth, co-founder, Koi

Aaron Barboza

Seth and Barboza, both 24-years-old and Mumbai-based, know each other from their days in junior college, many of which were spent bonding over food. "We watch many travel shows, especially by Anthony Bourdain. He used to make his audience travel through food. And that's what we want to do at Koi," says Barboza, who is works as a management consultant. Agrees Seth, adding that people are ignorant about how a certain food is the most popular dish of that country. "When people travel to Thailand, they mostly order Pad Thai, without knowing what makes it special," he explains. While the two personally look after the Mumbai branch, the Bengaluru one is managed full time by a friend, Nyla Saldanha. The venture is named after Koi fish, which signifies prosperity in Japan.

Travel and food may sound like a winning combination but Seth and Barboza are also aware of the project's constraints. "People are more inclined towards Southeast Asian cuisines because of the familiar flavours. For something like paella, the response would come down," says Seth. To counter this, they have added custard-based desserts to the menu.

The kits are priced at ₹800 for one person and ₹1450 for two. Visit cookwithkoi.com for details.

Extend the spirit of Thanksgiving into the weekend with these special offers from city restaurants

More than just turkey

• Express Features

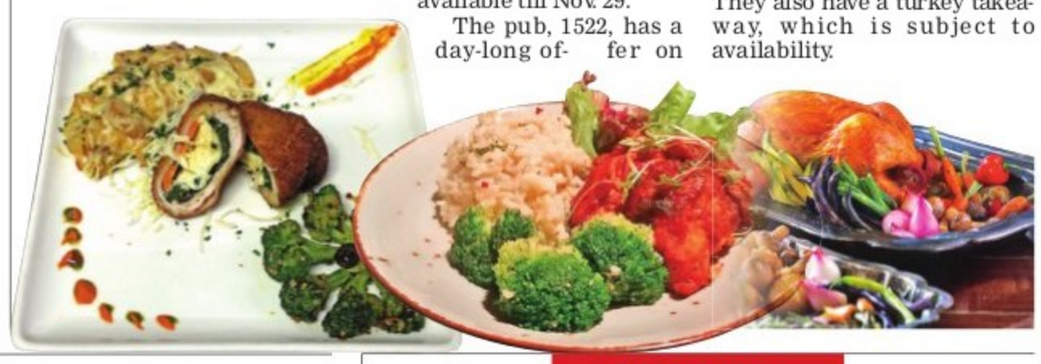
While the American holiday of Thanksgiving may be celebrated only on one day of the year, city restaurants are choosing to extend the spirit of gratitude through the weekend, with special offers and traditional festive dishes. Take, for instance, ITC Windsor, where the Thanksgiving week concludes on Nov. 29. At Raj Pavillion, executive chef Akshraj Jodha has prepared delicacies like Mushroom Fricassee with Herbed Rice and Garlic Toast, Twin floret Bake with Garlic and cheese toast, Cranberry and Maple Roasted Turkey with bread pudding and Apple sauce served with Creamy Garlic mash and Steam Greens, Slow roasted Garlic and Thyme Roasted Spring Chicken with Pan Jus and Deglazed Root Vegetables served with Steam Greens and Beans. The soup selection includes Tomato Bell Pepper Soup and Mushroom and Barley Soup. The a la carte menu is available for dinner only, from 7pm to 11.30pm, and also includes desserts like Pear and Apple Entremets with activated charcoal cake, mascarpone & basil scented whip, Sourcherry and Vanilla Torte with Beetroot and Chocolate Ice cream, all by pastry chef Ruby Islam.

A traditional Thanksgiving meal is incomplete without pie, and so Magnolia Bakery is whipping up some festive specials for the occasion. "We have introduced an Apple Caramel Lattice Pie. These delicious treats come as mini individual pies and pie slices and are available all weekend," says co-founder Zonu Reddy. The mini pies will retail for ₹450, while the slice costs ₹195.

The Reservoire, in Koramangala, will also serve apple pie as part of its special menu. This is in addition to other courses and dishes, which include Roasted Butternut Squash, Brandy Grilled Chicken, Roasted Whole Chicken in Spicy Red Wine Sauce and Harissa Veggie Skewers. Since there's no Thanksgiving without turkey, the restaurant has also included Roasted Turkey Salad and Herbs Crusted Turkey. "We also have a Grilled Turkey Bowl in Hot Sauce. The idea was to combine turkey with traditional and American favourite hot sauce," says executive chef Rudra Jogi. Prices begin at ₹160 onwards (call 91489-09148 for reservations), and the spread is available till Nov. 29.

The pub, 1522, has a day-long offer on Nov. 28, with specials in soups, salads, main course and desserts. These are available at the Residency Road outlet and include Creamy Roasted Pumpkin Soup with Sesame Seeds, Turkey Cordon Bleu with Lyonnaise Potatoes & Buttered Sautéed Broccoli, and English Bread Butter Pudding. Executive chef Francis Gomes says, "These are the heartbeat of an exuberant celebration meal. Every dish is cooked to celebrate the warmth of this season and bring in the tradition of the American holiday." The price for two is ₹1,200 and the menu will be available from 12pm to 1am.

Portland Steakhouse on Brunton Cross Road also decided to join in the revelry. Dine-in is available with prior reservation (contact 80255-93405) and includes a menu with roast turkey meal (with the must-have cranberry sauce), pumpkin pie and butternut squash soup. They also have a turkey takeaway, which is subject to availability.



LEGACY OF LOVE

This Bengalurean is using social media to keep alive her mother's heirloom recipes of spices, papads and jams

• Vidya Iyengar

Every day is a learning experience for Vasundhara Jhunjhunwala, who has taken it upon herself to run Old Fashioned Gourmet, which was started by her mother, Shyamlata Sihare, in 1993. "It was my mother's last wish that I continue her set-up. But when she told me, I said can't do it, and she accepted the answer," says Jhunjhunwala, adding that her mother had a big list of buyers, including the family of politician LK Advani.

But somewhere in the heart of hearts, she knew her calling. While things continued just the way they used to be in the initial years after her mother's passing, with staff in Delhi helping out, in the last one year, Jhunjhunwala has been working on creating a social media presence. "I just completed a course in online marketing to understand how I should be going about this. With this set-up only including four people who are involved end-to-end, I decided to design the website on my own. I have taken it as a challenge and have also been giving online food demos during the lockdown," says Jhunjhunwala, who moved to Bengaluru from Delhi in 1997.

The heirloom recipes – spices, papads and jams – are prepared at her home in Delhi, with Jhunjhunwala travelling there every couple of weeks. During the pandemic, she has been remotely managing the setup.

Guests at home were often in awe of the Marwari meal served in a silver thali, and asked her the secret behind the flavours, to which she would always say, "The key to any food is the ingredients". Which is why Jhunjhunwala is particular that the ingredients are sourced from the place of origin, without focussing on cost. The products are priced between ₹80 and ₹450.

The Ancient Mint Salt, which Jhunjhunwala found in old handwritten recipe books, blends 25 spices and mineral salts. These include pink Himalayan salt, black salt, Southern salt, and sambar salt to name a few. It also has 19 spices, including long pepper, in small portions. These are added for biryani, parantha, or buttermilk. "When I started off, I didn't know what many of these ingredients were. I remember going to Delhi's oldest spice market, Khari Baoli, to find out what sambar salt was, which I assumed was made in the South. Much to my surprise, an elderly gentlemen said this originated in Rajasthan," says Jhunjhunwala, narrating that her mother became a child widow at the age of 16, and was mistreated by her in-laws. Her grandfather would have none of it and brought her back to her maternal home. She was then home-schooled all the way to her post graduation, and persuaded her family to send her to the US for further studies. In 1964, she went to Michigan State University to pursue MA in advertising, after which she came back to join her family business before setting up her own in 1970, and became the first woman paper merchant in Delhi's all-male paper market. "In spite of having a thriving paper trading business she chose to venture into the food at the age of 65, because it was her passion," says Jhunjhunwala.

Unlike commercially available papads which are made using soda-bi-carbonate, their range – which includes aloo papad, moong papad, and Bijora, which is sesame papad – are made using an ancient ingredient called 'Sajji-Khar', which lends the papads a flavour and also makes it pliable and gut-friendly. "The staff has been with our family for years and they do the preparations out of muscle memory. But there's one standard all of us go by, 'Would Amma approve of this?'," she says, adding, "The biggest reward is when I hear, 'I've never tasted anything like this'."

> The staff has been with us for years. They do the preparations out of muscle memory. There's one standard we go by, 'Would Amma approve of this?' —Vasundhara Jhunjhunwala, businesswoman

ARISHADVARGA: A NEW-AGE NOIR THRILLER

A Sharadhaa

The dissection of a relationship is the focal point of Arishadvarga, and director Arvind Kamath does a good job of highlighting the six emotions of the human mind -- lust, anger, greed, attachment, ego and jealousy – in this neo-noir thriller. The movie revolves around a murder, which is in equal parts sensitive, emotional, disturbing and challenging.

Arishadvarga begins with Anish (Mahesh Bung), an aspiring actor doubling as an amateur gigolo. He receives a shocker when a wealthy and anonymous patron frames him in the murder of a well-known producer and businessman, Manjunath Bhat (Avinash). Stuck in this situation, will Anish be able to extricate himself or will he drown in the quicksand? This forms the basis of the story.

Sakshi (Samyuktha Hornad) plays an aspiring actor called for an audition, while Kruthi (Anju Alva Naik) is seen in the role of the producer's wife, and Ashok Kalburgi (Nanda Gopal) plays the cop investigating the murder. The cast also features Gopa Krishna Deshpande as an auto driver and Aravind Kuplikar as Karthik, a young aspiring director.

Bridging the gap between mainstream and indie cinema, director Arvind Kamath manages to highlight issues like misogyny, sexual deprivation and male prostitution, while holding a mirror to the complicated lives of people living in cosmopolitan cities. The pace of Arishadvarga, though a bit slow, seems to be a deliberate effort to highlight the characters. The nature of intertwined relationships takes some time for the viewer to understand. The climax, however, is sure to draw mixed reactions as there is a hint at a possible sequel in the future.

Anju Alva Naik, who plays the dead producer's second wife, as well as Nanda Gopal, seen as the alcoholic cop, pull off difficult roles. Karthik's character needed more time on screen. A special mention should be made of Sripathi Manjanabailu, who plays the role of Head Constable Raajanna. The film comes with a good background score and songs by Udit Haritas, who contributes well to the narration.

Arishadvarga, which depicts relationships in the urban set-up, is mature and realistic in parts, and judgement around the murder depends on the viewer's perspective.

Mane No 13: Equal parts horror and thriller

Cast: Ramana, Sanjeiv, Praveen Prem, Varsha Bollama, Aiswarya Gowda and Chethan Gandharva
Director: Vivy Kathiresan
Producer: Krishna Chaitanya
Streaming on: Amazon Prime Video
RATING 3/5

A Sharadhaa

Mane No 13 revolves around a story that is straight out of the most basic horror template. A group of friends move into a haunted house and then... well, the scary stuff begins.

The story begins with a group of techies, Nishok, Preethi, Nancy, Karthik and Ashwath, who stay together but are now forced to vacate their rented house. They move into an infamous haunted house, Mane No. 13.

On the very first night, they witness a few abnormal happenings. The paranormal activities get ramped up through the night and they are made to go through several terrifying experiences as they are killed one after the other.

With a fixed time on the clock marking each death, the tension builds up fast leaving you wondering if there is a ghost on the rampage or is there a murderer among them.

With a seemingly believable plot, the movie proceeds with a dose of suspense and is wrapped up with two smart endings.

Directed by Vivy Kathiresan, Mane No 13 does include a number of familiar tropes often connected with the genre. These tropes like — the climate, objects in the house, an evil toy, the sound of doors opening, and gusty winds — are effectively used to build up the horror.

Although the makers take a little time to build the tension, they do manage to keep the audience hooked with the proceedings. While Ramana, Sanjeiv, Praveen Prem, Varsha Bollama, Aiswarya Gowda are competent as the central cast, it is Chethan Gandharva's cameo that stands out in the film.

On the technical side, music by AM Shah adds to the mood of the film, which is further aided by Sandeep Sadashiv's crisp cinematography and neat editing by Castro.

After bankrolling successful horror films like 6-5=2 and Karvaa, producer Krishna Chaitanya seems to have found yet another similar content in Mane No. 13.

If you are a fan of the genre, and don't really mind a sense of familiarity, Mane No. 13 is definitely an effective one-time watch.

Kangana Ranaut has reacted to the Bombay High Court quashing the demolition order against her property by the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC). Back in September, the BMC had demolished a part of Kangana's Mumbai office on Pali Hill over claims of illegal construction. The order, according to a bench of the Bombay HC, was 'actuated by legal malice' and 'smacks of malafide'. As such, the bench has ruled to quash the demolition move and ordered a valuer to oversee appropriate compensations. At the same time, it has asked Kangana to exercise restraint on social media platforms. "Irresponsible statements made by citizen are best ignored," the bench was quoted as stating.

Kangana, who is presently shooting for her upcoming film Thalaivi, shared a video on Instagram and wrote, "When individual stands against the government and wins, it's not the victory of the individual but it's the victory of the democracy. Thank you everyone who gave me courage and thanks to those who laughed at my broken dreams. Its only cause you play a villain so I can be a HERO."

'I will remember Tenet for many reasons'

While stars like Priyanka Chopra and Deepika Padukone have featured in Hollywood films, it is heartwarming that character artistes like yourself, Shabana Azmi and Adil Hussain are being recognised by Western filmmakers. Do you think it's done for the relatability with Indian audiences or is it a sign that they have taken note of the acting talent here?

I think Shabana was the first to go there in a big way. She was the one to get them looking towards us. The world has changed a lot over the past decade and that means that Hollywood is now more aware of talent across the world. I think people like me featuring in their cinema is a consequence of that.

Do you have a favourite in Nolan's filmography?

The Prestige! I love it the most. It transported me into another world.

Looking back, what will you always remember this Tenet experience for?

I will have so much to remember, you know? (Pauses) But there was this moment during shooting. I was a bit nervous, and Nolan was standing next to me. He must have realised that I was feeling quite shaken up, because he suddenly extended his hand for me to hold. I am grateful that he did that. How could he have known what I was feeling?

Uncle Frank: A somewhat overly nice coming-of-age story

When 14-year-old small-town girl Beth Bledsoe comes of age, her uncle Frank (Paul Bettany) is forced to come out to his family, in this melodramatic-yet-moving drama

Kirubhakar Purushothaman

Life itself is neither good nor evil; life is where good or evil find a place, depending on how you make it for them." This quote from philosopher Michel de Montaigne showed up on my instagram feed right after I was done watching Uncle Frank. It was uncanny because Alan Ball seems to be driving the same message home with his latest movie, which is both a coming-of-age story and an overdone drama about Frank Bledsoe, a gay man who is forced to come out to his family. From the perspective of his niece, the film empathises not just with Frank but also with his conservative and rigid family. There is no good and evil in the film, only people trusting what they believe to be true.

In the summer of 1968, life changes for 14-year-old small-town girl, Beth Bledsoe after an intimate conversation with her uncle Frank, who rarely visits them. No one in her family is interested in Beth, including her father, who wouldn't let her be a majorette (a dancer in school marching parades) because "no daughter of his would be dancing around half-naked in front of the whole town; she might get raped and would have deserved it." Naturally, Beth adores uncle Frank, a sensible literature professor who tells her that she can choose to be whatever she wants. Four years later, Beth finds herself in New York in the same university where her uncle teaches. There, she learns about Frank's sexuality and his long-time lover Wally (Peter Macdissi), a native of Saud Arabia. When Frank's father, Daddy Mac dies, the trio ends up taking a road trip to his native town, where things turn ugly before the final redemption.

UNCLE FRANK
Director: Alan Ball
Cast: Paul Bettany, Sophia Lillis, Peter Macdissi
Streaming on: Amazon Prime Video
RATING 3.5/5

At one point in their journey, Wally tells Beth, "I'm not interested in nice. Nice always hides something. What's hidden is what interests me." But Uncle Frank is supremely nice to such an extent that it becomes cloying. Yes, the film does shows some streaks of ugliness like Daddy Mac and his religious hate towards homosexuality, but it feels like even he is let off the hook too easily. And what's hidden inside Frank, like many things in the film, is too predictable. Almost all of the characters, except for the lead trio, do exactly what we expect them to do, which is very little. Even an incredible performer like Margo Martindale (Bojack Horseman, Sneaky Pete) gets just one long scene.

Yet, you can't help but adore Uncle Frank for its deep yet practical take on things. One might have a problem with Frank for physically hurting Wally, or with Wally's politically incorrect joke on Sri Lanka. But then again, this is not a film that preaches right and wrong. It is more about their coexistence. At any given point in time, there will be someone who hates Frank. And all Alan Ball has for them is the line Frank tells his religious aunt: "I know that this is the very best you're capable of."
